J. HERBERT SMITH GIVES ACCOUNT OF LONG TRIP

Visit Many Interesting Places
In Europe, and Witness
'Passion Play'

A hearty greeting is being received from their Glendale friends by Mr. and Mrs. J. Herbert Smith, of 511 North Central avenue, who arrived home Sunday morning from a summer trip that took them to points of interest in the eastern part of the United States, across the Atlantic for a tour of the continent, and for a visit to Mr. Smith's boyhood home in Haldstead, Essex county, England, then back to the United States, up into Canada and then west, and down the Pacific coast home.

Mr. and Mrs. Smith had as traveling companions, Mr. and Mrs. N. E. Wilson, of Pasadena. Mr. Smith is owner of the Glendale Groceries, at 116 North Brand boulevard, and Mr. Wilson is in the grocery business in Pasadena, and when they left Glendale in June they went directly to Cleveland, Ohio, to attend the annual convention of the International Retail Grocers' association.

Attended Ohio Meet

Mr. Smith, who is president of the California Grocers' association, represented the state at the Ohio gathering. The 1922 convention is to be held at St. Paul, Minn.

At the close of the convention the party went to New York, where they celebrated the Fourth of July by embarking on the Cunard liner, the Aquitania, for the trans-Atlantic trip, an account of which was written by Mr. Smith to the employees at the grocereria and printed in the Glendale Evening News.

Upon landing at Southampton they spent but one week in the south of England, particularly London, and then crossed into France and traveled on to Switzerland, which Mr. Smith describes as the real beauty spot of the entire trip. They visited Montaux, Lucerne and Geneva.

Switzerland Wonderful

"Switzerland is a wonderful country," says Mr. Smith, "and if we were to pick out the most beautiful spot it would be Switzerland. We first visited in Montaux, which is the cleanest city I have ever seen or could imagine. The streets are paved with cobble stones and are kept perfectly (Continued on Page 10)

CLUB TO SUPPORT RICHARDSON FOR GOVERNORSHIP

Members of Various Parties Organize to Help In Electing Candidate

Organization of a Richardson-for-Governor club was started at a public meeting held last night in the auditorium of the Glendale Union High school when a number of persons of different political faiths met in response to a call issued last week by local citizens interested in the election of the Republican candidate and the defeat of the Democratic candidate, the latter having declared himself "in favor of beer and light wines."

As a result of last night's gathering, Judge P. H. Lowe was selected as president of the club, A. H. Davis was chosen for vice-president, J. C. Sherer was made secretary and A. T. Cowan elected treasurer.

In calling the gathering to order, Judge Lowe pointed out that a number of people opposed to the "wet" Democratic candidate for a governor desired to work for the Republican candidate and being Democrats, Prohibitionists or non-partisans, were unable to affiliate with the Republican club, which is supporting the entire Republican ticket.

Open to All

Other speakers endorsed Judge Lowe's views and declared that an organization open to members of all parties opposed to the "wet" Democratic candidate is necessary here.

"Many people registered as Democrats and Prohibitionists intend to vote for Richardson," declared A. H. Davis. "Many people cannot affiliate with the Republican club. A Richardson-for-Governor club is necessary. The candidate himself is in favor of having independent clubs organized. I have a letter from him to that effect."

During the meeting it developed that a number of citizens not members of the Republican party were anxious, it was stated, to work for the election of Richardson, hence it was finally decided that the Richardson-for-Governor club be conducted entirely independent of any party organization and wholly for the election of Richardson in opposition to the "wet" Democratic candidate.

Executive Committee

An executive committee composed of members of the several political parties is being selected. The members thus far announced are W. S. Ingram, G. F. McClish, Dr. W. C. Mabry, G. B. Woodberry, R. M. McGee, R. S. Person, Colonel James W. Everington, W. B. Kirk, Mrs. A. H. Montgomery, Mrs. Ruby J. Smart, John Everson and Dr. P. S. Kellogg.

It was announced that another meeting of the club will be held next Monday night at 8 o'clock at the Glendale Union High school. In the meantime, those desiring to become members of the club are asked to communicate with any of the officers.

Arrest Driver Who Fails to Give Aid

A collision at the intersection of San Fernando road and Colorado street at midnight resulted in the driver of a car who failed to stop to ascertain the amount of damage, being arrested a few minutes later in Burbank.

M. L. Robertson of 1201 Molino street, Long Beach, claims that his car was run into by a machine containing two sailors and two girls. One of the running boards was damaged and one of the fenders and bumpers on his car were damaged also. The car, which hit him was stopped later in Burbank. It was registered to Grover Taker of 3201 Lacey street, Los Angeles.

W. S. Hart Reported On Way to Recovery

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 10.—Improvement in the condition of William S. Hart, two-gun man of the screen, a sufferer from typhoid fever and complications, was reported today by the physician in attendance, Dr. L. Roth. Dr. Roth said that Hart, who was earlier believed near death, has excellent chances for recovery. Attorney Milton J. Cohen, counsel of Mrs. Hart, from whom the screen actor is separated, said today that his client is suffering from shock as the result of reports that Hart was seriously ill.

CLAIM MOTORISTS CARELESS ABOUT MUFFLERS NOW

Other Important Matters Up at Credit Meeting at Monday Noon

A number of important matters were brought up at the meeting of the Glendale Credit Association at their meeting yesterday noon at the Chamber of Commerce dining room. About forty members were present.

Dr. Roy W. Hogue called attention of the members to the muffler situation as it exists in Glendale, declaring that motorists are getting careless about the matter. It will be taken up with the police department, it was announced.

Another matter brought up by Dr. Hogue was that of the Pacific Electric running freight cars on Brand and Broadway during the daytime. He explained that it was his understanding that there was a city ordinance prohibiting the switching of the cars during business hours.

J. Herbert Smith gave a brief outline of his European trip. Mr. Smith is secretary of the Rotary Club, and upon leaving on his trip was instructed to return with a complete account of his trip to give the Rotary members.

Will Give Account of His Trip to Europe

He promised to give a full account of his trip to the credit men, after he had kept his promise to the Rotary members. It is planned to allow him an entire meeting period at some future date so that the interesting story of the trip may be told, it is announced.

An evidence of the remarkable growth of Glendale is that an increased number of inquiries are reaching Frank H. Pilling, secretary of the association. While the average number of daily calls from members for credit information has averaged about fifty in the past, according to Mr. Pilling, the total of 103 calls has now been reached in a single day.

"That is a good indication that many new families are moving into the city," he declared.

GIRL SCOUTS OF TROOP NO. 2 MEET

New Members Are Approved Bringing Enrollment Up
to Twenty-four

Glendale Girl Scouts Troop No. 2, of which Miss Vera Simpson is captain, held a meeting Saturday afternoon at the home of Mrs. C. J. Letts, 450 West Lexington drive.

Mabel Horner presided as chairman of the business session. Elizabeth Horner, Lucie Brunner and Thelma Barker were approved as new members of the troop. This brings the enrollment to twenty-four, with three complete patrols.

Tenderfoot tests were passed by Mabel Horner, Catherine Stanley and Stella Roberts.

For the present the philanthropic work of this troop will be directed to the Children's Hospital in Los Angeles.

Plans for the next meeting, October 21, include a motor trip to that institution in acceptance of a special invitation from the management.

They also have in anticipation a week-end trip, to take place during this month, to Mt. Wilson, where a visit to the observatory will be arranged for them through the courtesy of B. F. Bourne, father of Brances Bourne, member of the troop.

The business meeting was followed by a social hour, and light refreshments were served. Special guests were Mrs. C. J. Letts and Mrs. J. P. Barker.

Hold Brotherhood Banquet October 17

Considerable interest is being manifested in the Federated Brotherhood banquet which takes place next Tuesday night, October 17, in the Central Christian church at 6:45 o'clock. The banquet will be served by the Women's Aid of this church. An opportunity will be given to inspect the new and beautiful building and furthermore all men will want to hear Federal Judge B. F. Bledsoe's address. Tickets can be secured at the Glendale Book store, 113 South Brand Blvd.

Discuss Wright Bill at Church Meeting

The meeting held last night in the social hall of the Central Christian church to discuss the Wright Bill adjourned to meet again in a general mass meeting next week. R. F. Kitterman, vice chairman of the local campaign committee, presided. About fifty persons were present. The discussion, which lasted about an hour, was of an informal nature.

Many Shot Result of Riots In Dublin

DUBLIN, Oct. 10.—Many persons were shot—some killed and some wounded—in rioting and ambush attacks which raged here today and last night in an attempt to liberate the 100 or more irregulars interned in Mount Joy prison.

There was heavy firing throughout the city and ambush attacks at most of the principal street corners. Several civilians were struck by bullets.

Two persons were reported killed and two wounded in a reported outbreak in Mount Joy prison. A regular battle was fought in the prison yard as rifles and revolvers had been smuggled into the irregular prisoners.

Officials refused to say if any of the convicts had escaped. At 9 o'clock guerrilla warfare in the city was renewed after a short lull. Bombs were thrown at Mount Joy prison in an evident effort to breach the walls.

A party of soldiers, arriving in an armored car, were attacked from ambush, throwing the crowds in the street into panic.

War Mothers Will Hear of Wright Bill

Mrs. Ruby J. Smart, president of the local organization of the Women's Christian Temperance Union, will be the principal speaker at the regular bi-monthly meeting of the War Mothers tomorrow (Wednesday) afternoon at 2 o'clock at the American Legion hall, 610 East Broadway.

This announcement was made yesterday by Mrs. J. B. Sherwood, president of the Chapter.

Mrs. Smart will dwell principally on the Wright bill, which is to be voted on at the election November 7. The bill provides for the enforcement by the state of the national prohibition amendment.

All members and any women who are mothers of soldiers or sailors who took part in the World War are urged to be present at the gathering, as there are several additional important matters to come up.

POLICY of TREASURER WASHINGTON, Oct. 10.—The policy previously enunciated by Secretary of the Treasury Mellon that the United States does not consider international disturbances in Europe or the condition of Europe's finances as causes for reducing or cancelling any part of the $11,000,000,000 debt to this government, was reiterated officially at the White House this afternoon.

ARMY DIRIGIBLE LEAVES TONIGHT ON RETURN TRIP

ROSS FIELD, Oct. 10.—The army dirigible C-2 will leave here at 9 o'clock tonight on its return trans-continental flight to Langley field, Virginia, according to Major H. A. Strauss, in command of the craft. The commander said that the engines of the C-2 are working perfectly and that all preparations for the trip have been completed.

CHAPLAIN MAKES AIR FLIGHT TO CURE DEAFNESS

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 10.—A gradually growing deafness stood between Chaplain H. M. Leech of the new Lutheran church at the army presidio here and a commission as captain in the army reserve corps. Army surgeons recommended flying as a cure. Chaplain Leech took their advice and today, following a flight to an altitude of 13,000 feet with Captain A. F. Horald, his hearing is completely restored. He will make two more flights to make the cure lasting.

AUTHORITIES HALT INQUIRY INTO MAN'S DEATH

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 10.—Investigation of the death of William Felesoff, 22, former Russian minister of San Francisco, whose body was found under an overturned automobile in Topanga canyon, was discontinued today as a result of the decision of County Autopsy Surgeon A. F. Wagner that the San Francisco man met death in the plunge of his automobile from the top of a grade to the floor of the canyon. The "bullet holes" found in his head were declared to be caused by braces of the windshield of his machine or by sharp rocks.

FRENCH PROTEST AGAINST RULING ON 'WET' SHIPS

PARIS, Oct. 10.—French merchant marine officials today appealed to Premier Poincare to make formal protest to the United States against Attorney General Daugherty's ruling that no ships carrying liquor shall enter the three mile zone off the American coast. The French charge that the American liquor ruling violates the freedom of the seas and interferes with the French law allowing a portion of wine to be served daily as part of the food to French sailors. The French are threatening customs reprisals for losses accruing to French commerce as a result of the ruling.

ORDERS SUSPENSION OF EXECUTION OF BROTHERS

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 10.—Execution of Leopoldo and Alberto Salinas, brothers, found guilty by a court-martial of aiding the rebel leader, Francisco Murguia, was today ordered suspended by War Secretary Serrano. The suspension resulted from a stay granted by a judge of the Durango branch of the federal court. The Salinas brothers were recently captured while federal troops were engaged against Murguia's rebels. They were said to be Murguia's chief aides. Their mother visited President Obregon, making a plea for executive clemency, but in the meantime the Durango court acted.

TO DEMAND SETTLEMENT FROM WEALTHY MAN

MARIETTA, Ga., Oct. 10.—Mrs. Oneizma De Bouchelle, announced fiancée of Asa G. Candler, spent last night in Marietta. She announced here that she would proceed to Atlanta this morning to demand a settlement from the Atlanta financier. She declared their engagement is irrevocably off. Mrs. De Bouchelle came to Marietta from Chattanooga. She is stopping at Roxana Hall, one mile from the courthouse. She was in the Tennessee city for three weeks, going there direct from Reno. According to her statement, while in Chattanooga she telegraphed her fiancé to meet her. Instead of arriving in person, she declares, he sent detectives who shadowed her stay there. In a statement to the Atlanta Georgian today Mrs. De Bouchelle said: "Mr. Candler and I were to have been married September 20. All arrangements were made, the clergyman engaged, cards engraved, and we were to be at home October 19. September 15 he informed me that it would not be fair to marry me and bring me here where reports had been made against me."

MORE EVIDENCE OF PROSPERITY THROUGHOUT U. S.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10.—American industry is now marking up the best production record made since the period of depression two years ago, it was shown by a new business survey issued today by the department of commerce. Increased output is general among all industries, the reports said. The factory employment is larger than at the end of 1920, which is held to be a chief factor in a more even distribution of buying power. Declines in prices for agricultural products are believed only temporary. Bountiful harvests forecast for this year have served to depress farm product prices, but world demand is due to send them up again. Meanwhile, the farmers are resting easy, assured of plenty of credit, according to government officials, and a large percentage of them so well established they would not have to make demands upon the banks such as were necessary last year and the year preceding. Wool consumption is larger than at any period since the census bureau began compiling such data. Cotton spindles are more active. Consumption of fabrics by automobile tire manufacturers has reached 11,000,000 pounds a month, the highest in a year. Locomotive manufacturers are speeding up to meet the needs of the railroads for new motive power. Production of automobiles and trucks now exceed all previous records.

NEW SPENDING OVER BILLION ON WATER PROJECTS

DEL MONTE, Oct. 10.—California power companies, with an industrial army recruiting up to 10,000 men, are now engaged in construction work on projects to conserve its water resources and turn them to generating electric power at a cost which, when completed, will be over a billion dollars, or about three times the cost of the Panama canal, George R. Martin, of the Security Trust & Savings Bank of Los Angeles, declared in an address before the Investment Bankers' Association of America, in annual convention here today. Reviewing the work of development that is now in progress, or contemplated in the High Sierras; on the Pit river, the Hetch-Hetchy, and the Feather, American and Kings rivers, Mr. Martin stated that the construction work now being done by one power company in the High Sierras of southern California, with a force of 5000 men, will cost, when completed, fifteen million dollars more than the Panama canal, and its financing is sufficient to control the Colorado river and electrically develop seventy-five per cent of the available electric power on the stream. The water power companies in California, the speaker said, this year are expending seventy-five million dollars for hydro-electric construction and transmission, and next year and for a number of years to come, have arranged to spend one hundred million dollars a year for electric construction work within the state. The convention today received and discussed the reports of the committees on fraudulent advertising, public service securities, real estate securities, publicity, foreign securities and government bonds.

REV. PHILIP KEMP NAMED RECTOR FOR ST. MARK'S

New Minister Will Assume Duties on November 1;
Recently Married

Rev. Philip K. Kemp, who has served for three years with Bishop Stephens as curate of St. Mark's Episcopal church in San Antonio, Texas, has been elected rector of Glendale's St. Mark's Episcopal church and will assume the duties of the pastorate the first of November.

The announcement of Rev. Kemp's acceptance of the call will be gladly received by the St. Mark's parishioners for the parish has been without a resident rector for a period of four years. During that time Dr. George Cornell of Pasadena had served the parish most faithfully but the church people have long felt the need of a resident and permanent pastor.

Recently Married

Rev. Kemp is an alumnus of Columbia university, where his father, Prof. James Kemp, has made a national reputation as a geologist. After receiving his M. A. degree from Columbia Rev. Kemp attended the Union Theological Seminary in New York City and upon graduation entered the ministry.

His marriage was a recent event and he and Mrs. Kemp expect to arrive in Glendale late this month to select a home previous to Rev. Kemp's taking up his pastoral duties.

LARGE GIFT MADE TO OCCIDENTAL ANNOUNCEMENT

Dr. Norman Bridges Donates
$25,000 As Help for Endowment Fund

Dr. Norman Bridges of Pasadena has donated $25,000 to Occidental college, it was announced yesterday by President Remsen DuBois Bird. The gift is a contribution to Occidental's $500,000 endowment campaign, which will continue until January 1, 1925. Of the total amount to be raised, $166,000 will be given by Rockefeller Foundation if the remainder is subscribed within the time limit.

Dr. Bridges is known throughout the state as one of the chief benefactors of educational institutions in southern California. Among his largest gifts to education is the Norman Bridges Laboratory at the California Institute of Technology in Pasadena.

Find New Witness to Double Slaying

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J.—Oct. 10.—A new witness who claims to have seen Rev. Dr. Edward W. Hall, wealthy rector of the fashionable Protestant Episcopal church of St. John the Evangelist, and his beautiful choir leader, Mrs. James Mills, killed in a "battle between a woman on one side and another woman on the other side."

It is claimed eye witness of the mysterious midnight tragedy, which has baffled the authorities more than three weeks, is an inmate of the Barker home for the aged, which is just across the road from the old Phillips farm, where the bodies of Dr. Hall and Mrs. Mills were found side by side beneath a stunted crab apple tree on Saturday, September 16.

Meanwhile two self-confessed boys were in jail facing possible arraignment this afternoon. The two prisoners, Clifford Hayes, charged with first degree murder in connection with the double slaying, and Raymond Schneider, held as a material witness, spent a comfortable night. Both were held uncommunicado. Public feeling is growing here that Schneider's confession that he and Hayes trailed Hall and Mrs. Mills to the isolated farm and that Hayes fired four bullets into Hall and Mrs. Mills in the belief that she was his sweetheart, 15-year-old Helen Bahner, and her stepfather must be accepted with doubt. Hayes denies that he killed Hall and Mrs. Mills.

Machine Hits Boy; Ran Across Street

Norville L. Dutton, Jr., son of realtor N. L. Dutton, was badly bruised about 5:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon when struck by an automobile driven by W. N. Castevens of Los Angeles. The accident occurred at Broadway and Belmont street. It is reported that the boy ran across the street and did not notice the approaching machine. He was taken to his home at 139 South Belmont street.

But Drivers Escape Unhurt
When Machines Lock
Horns, Police Say

Two Fords locked horns early this morning two blocks east of the intersection of Colorado boulevard and Eagle Rock road, with disastrous results to both machines as reported to the police department.

One of the cars was driven by Philip E. Dillinger, of 398 West Wilson avenue, Glendale, and in his report to the police, he lists his damage as three wheels broken, a fender and a running board demolished.

L. G. Murrett of 252 Clinton street, Pasadena, was the driver of the other car, who recites his damage as two broken wheels and other minor bends and dents.

According to the police neither driver was hurt in the collision.

HI SCHOOL BOARD GIVES STATEMENT ON BOND ISSUE

Officials Tell of Need for Additional Funds; Election October 20

The board of trustees of the Glendale Union High School requests the Glendale Evening News to give publicity to the following statement by the trustees relative to the high school bond election to be held on October 20:

To the Citizens of the Glendale Union High School District—The crowded conditions in the high school one year ago showed that action for additional school facilities could not be delayed. We reviewed the history of the school and found a record of outgrowth sites, additions to site, additional permanent buildings, and temporary bungalows, each change one of our high school inadequacies to meet the remarkable growth of this valley. We determined that the mistakes of the past should not be repeated and that this time a site and buildings sufficient for a plant large enough to meet our needs should be secured.

December 29, 1921, the patrons voted $35,000 for a new site by an overwhelming majority.

We now faced the building situation. We knew the utmost available funds would be needed. Therefore, we asked for what was then the full bonding capacity of the district, $600,000. So well known was the need that on May 2, 1922, the people voted these bonds by the tremendous majority of 16 to 1.

The architect was then instructed to prepare plans to meet the needs of the district. He made preliminary plans and reported to the board that a complete plant which would accommodate the number of students waiting at the time of its completion, could not be built for $600,000. The incredible growth of our district substantiated this statement. The increase in the average attendance of our high school last year was 42 per cent over that of the preceding year and the present enrollment in our day high school alone is 47 per cent over what it was at the beginning of last year, while that of the evening high school is over 100 per cent greater than last year.

Hold Mass Meeting. Faced with this situation, we presented the matter to the people in a mass meeting. The people saw not only the immediate need but also the needs of the future and in their mass meeting instructed us to call a bond election for $350,000—this money to be used for the completion of the building fund for the new high school plant and also for the purchase of a site in the northwest part of the district. Two considerations led the people to recommend the purchase of an additional site: (1), the remarkable growth of the district makes it evident that one high school, however large, cannot long serve the district's full needs; (2), that land may be purchased now at the present acreage valuation rather than at the residence lot prices of the future. There will be four sites submitted to the voters for their selection. This will be done by a preferential ballot given to each voter when he votes at the bond election. The site receiving the greatest number of votes will be the one chosen by the trustees. The bond election could not be called until this year's increased assessed valuations were available for bonding purposes. We were guided by the County Counsel in this matter and he set the date of the election for October 20, 1922. This is a summary of what has led up to the present situation.

Immediate Action. The present crowded condition of the high school must be relieved. Every bit of space in the present plant is being used, the school day has been lengthened from 7:45 to 4:15, which is prohibitive for the longest school day in the state, and every day brings additional students and February will bring an entering class of 200 at least. Hundreds of students will come in September next to be cared for in this already overcrowded plant. The new buildings, if started today, could not be ready for use until after January 1, 1924. You dare not delay.

The educational welfare of all the boys and girls of this valley is at stake. The $600,000 already voted will not provide a complete plant large enough for the boys and girls who will be waiting for it when it is finished. We have laid the problem before you. Its solution rests with you. Will you give your boys and girls the educational opportunities that other boys and girls have? You always have. Do it now. Election, October 20th. Polling places, as in the last high school bond election.

Respectfully submitted,
BOARD OF TRUSTEES,
Glendale Union High School.

CORRECTION MADE
It was erroneously stated in the Eagle Rock News yesterday that the city attorney of Eagle Rock had sent an ultimatum to the architect of the new Eagle Rock city hall demanding that a definite date be given when the building could be occupied, and The News takes this opportunity to make the correction. The letter that the city attorney addressed to the architects, it is now understood, was not in the nature of an ultimatum.

INSPECTION OF SCHOOLS

The new Glendale Avenue Intermediate school will be inspected officially this afternoon by members of the grammar school board of education. Owing to the fact that the clock system has not been installed and other work remains to be done, Supt. R. D. White is of the opinion that the board will not accept it officially unless it does so provisionally. Alfred Priest of 1122 North Central avenue is the architect. Most of the work was done by the Rommel Construction Company of 131 South Brand boulevard.

PUPILS REFUSED RATE

How to get children from the Pacific School to the Columbus School without paying the Pacific Electric bus six cents each way will be discussed tonight by the grammar school board of education. On account of the crowded conditions at the Pacific School it was decided a few days ago to transfer some of the pupils there to the Columbus School. Because of the declared fact that the Pacific Electric buses are not paying, the Pacific Electric has refused to grant a rate lower than six cents each way. It has refused to issue school tickets.

SUBSTITUTE TEACHER

Miss Susie M. Taggart of 330 Hawthorne street is substituting today at the Doran street kindergarten for Mrs. Dorothy Hunt Sullivan of 406 West Maple street.

HIGH SCHOOL BOND ISSUE

Details of the approaching bond election, which will be held on October 20, will be discussed tonight at the regular monthly meeting of the high school board of education. Principal George U. Moyle stated this morning that some additional plans have been received and will probably be examined.

At a meeting of the board of trustees of the city of Eagle Rock last evening, citizens residing in the neighborhood of the corner of Delaware and Park avenue were present and requested the board to install an electric light on this corner. They also requested that the board take some action to take care of the flood water at this point, and suggested that a culvert be built from Park avenue to Sycamore.

The city clerk was instructed to take up the matter of the light with the Edison company and referred the matter of the culvert to the city engineer's office.

New Bond Issues
In addition to the $100,000 new bond issue covering the two propositions of additional water supply and increased fire protection, the city attorney was instructed to include in the proposition an additional $25,000 to cover the installation of arc lights throughout the city, as recently proposed in a schedule submitted by the Southern California Edison company; the ornamental lights as proposed for Colorado boulevard were not included.

This, it is understood, will make three distinct bond issues that will total $125,000.

P. H. Ducker, secretary of the water board, made the request that the weekly inspection of the wells by the city chemist state whether or not the water is fit for domestic use.

Want Chemist Reports
While the recent water scare is a thing of the past, it appears that the weekly reports of the chemist are couched in technical terms and after reading such report the average person is unable to understand just what such report indicates, and for this reason it is desired that the reports state whether or not the water is fit to drink, it was announced. The report of the chemist of the analysis of the water in the city wells was received and filed.

Ordinance No. 199 referring to garbage collection came up for the first reading. This was followed by Ordinance No. 200 that refers to amending the fire ordinance so that steel, iron or concrete filling stations can be permitted was also up for its first reading, and this was followed by the first reading of Ordinance No. 201 that takes up the matter of providing the necessary expense for the engineering department to take care of, posting notices, printing and publishing advertisements.

The question of the final completion of the new city hall came up for discussion, and it was understood that there is to be about $100 additional expense in decorating and in putting on a 6-inch capping along both sides of the entrance, and the city agreed to pay half the expense.

It is now believed that the city will be able to move into their new building about November 1.

Committee Makes Request
Professor Elbert E. Chandler, representing a committee on the annexation proposition, was before the board of trustees last night, and as chairman of such committee, requested the board of trustees to withhold any action on the new $100,000 bond issue that is to cover the two propositions of increased fire protection and additional water supply until such time as the annexation proposition could be brought before them.

This request was taken under advisement by the board.

Put Out Tree Fire
at New City Hall
The fire department was called out this morning about 9 o'clock to extinguish a fire on the grounds of the new Eagle Rock city hall.

In burning some trash, it is reported that a tall palm tree on the grounds caught fire, and the stream from the small hose was unable to reach it which necessitated the calling out of the big fire truck.

OCTOBER BUILDING PERMITS CLIMB IN EAGLE ROCK

First Four Permits Monday
Total $13,200; Predict
Banner Month

Building permits in Eagle Rock that were issued Monday bear out the statement that October is to witness a decided spurt in new buildings to be erected in the city. If the permits issued every day for the balance of the week will average up as high as those issued on Monday, the total figures will amount to over $100,000 before the month is half over.

The J. B. Brown company, well known Eagle Rock builders, took out the first four permits issued for the day that totaled $13,200. One of these permits is for the new garage and salesroom to be built in Dahlia Heights as reported in the News yesterday, that is to cost $3800. They also took out permits to build three dwellings. The first is in the name of Sadie Moran, and is to be a four-room dwelling at 412 Linden Way, that is to cost $2600.

The next one is for a five-room dwelling for Anna E. Kincaid, at 265 North Acacia, to cost $3800. The third one is for a five-room dwelling at 262 South Virginia, to cost $3000 to be built for H. M. Brown.

Mike Broderick, of 167 Peyton, swelled the Monday report by taking out a permit to build a five-room dwelling at the Peyton avenue address where he already has a garage house in the rear. It is to cost $4000, and James Deebach is given as the name of the builder.

"Prospects for increased building activity in Eagle Rock never looked better than it does right now," stated J. B. Brown, head of the building firm that bears his name, and who is also president of the Eagle Rock realty board.

"I look for October to be one of the best months of the year as far as building is concerned, and feel confident that our total yearly record here in Eagle Rock will in proportion to the size of the city rank with the highest in the state," he stated.

Dr. Harrower Sends Wireless From Ship

A wireless message was received Saturday night at the Harrower laboratories at 920 East Broadway from Dr. and Mrs. H. R. Harrower and daughter Verna, who are en route across the Atlantic on the White Star liner Majestic.

The message was sent seven hours after the boat left New York and was an acknowledgment of telegrams and a large bouquet of pink roses received by the Harrowers at the dock from the employees of the Glendale laboratory.

It read, "Courtesies gratefully appreciated. Warmest greetings everybody."

OHIO ELECTION IN FALL WILL BE LIVELY EVENT

Fess and Pomerene Center of Interest; Congressmen In Busy Contest

By WILLIAM J. HUSKE
For International News Service.
CLEVELAND.—National issues will be uppermost in deciding the election in Ohio this fall, when a United States senator, twenty-two congressmen and a complete state ticket will be chosen.

In view of the fact that this is President Harding's home state, and that Senator Atlee Pomerene, of Canton, veteran Democratic legislator, has been talked of for the presidential race two years hence, more than usual interest attaches to the verdict which the voters of Ohio will pass this fall on two years of Republican control of all branches of the government.

Senator Pomerene, who is opposed to Congressman Simon D. Fess, former chairman of the Republican congressional campaign committee and one of the leaders of the lower house, has already been stressing such issues as the tariff, the Newberry case, with which his name is closely connected as an unsparing critic, and other alleged failures of the Administration at Washington.

Ways in which, it is alleged, the new Fordney-McCumber tariff will increase the cost of living to the average person will be brought home to the women of the state by the senator, his headquarters have declared, and a special drive will be made to get the votes of women on this basis.

Bonus No Issue

The bonus affords no issue between the senatorial candidates, as both voted for it, Pomerene as a Senator and Fess as a member of the House. However, the perennial wet and dry issue will be brought to the fore, through the endorsement of Congressman Fess by the Anti-Saloon League, while the Association Opposed to Prohibition, which claims a large membership throughout the state, has endorsed Pomerene.

Supporters of Congressman Fess will also seek to emphasize the fact that Senator Pomerene voted against the submission of the amendment to the national constitution enfranchising women. Pomerene himself states that on this and the liquor case he followed the vote of his state, and that since Ohio voted dry he has supported all needed legislation to make the national amendment effective, and that as a citizen he always supported full suffrage rights for women.

Congressman Fess, in his speeches thus far, has proven himself a champion of all that congress has done, as well as a strong supporter of President Harding. He has repeatedly declared that the achievements of the national legislative body are greater than ever before accomplished by any congress in the nation's history, and wholeheartedly defends all things done as well as failure to act upon other matters.

Labor Is "Cool"

Labor does not warm up, so far as the leaders are concerned, to either Senatorial candidate. Pomerene's votes in the Senate and Fess's votes in the House prove them to be "unfriendly," labor leaders assert, and so far as this vote can be controlled it probably will be cast as a protest for General Jacob S. Coxey, of Massillon, an independent. The general, though less the weight of his years, is still the same impetuous leader he was when he headed "Coxey's army" in its march to Washington during the last Cleveland administration. Another independent candidate for United States senator is Mrs. Virginia Green, of Cleveland, a member of the Board of Education here, who has announced that she will make her campaign principally upon the issue of "Newberryism."

The rival candidates for governor are Colonel Carmi A. Thompson, of Cleveland, Republican, and A. V. Donahey, of New Philadelphia, Democrat. Thompson is a close personal friend and adviser of the president, and served on one of the advisory committees of the armament conference in Washington. He is making his campaign as "an old-fashioned Republican and declares that the paramount duty of Ohio voters is to uphold the hands of the president, in what he declares to be the most "trying and eventful period since the Civil War."

Foe of Grafters

On the other hand, Donahey, the Democratic candidate, state auditor for eight years, where he established a reputation as a foe of grafters, will stress state issues, probably even to the exclusion of national issues so far as his campaign is concerned.

So far as speaking is concerned, the campaign will be the shortest in Ohio's history. The "campaign opening" of the Republicans is set for the first week in October and the Democratic heavy artillery will not get into action before that date. However, both Senator Pomerene and Congressman Fess are already accepting invitations to deliver "non-partisan" speeches, in which their views on public questions are placed pretty fully before the voters.

DR. CRIST SUBMITS ANNUAL REPORT ABOUT CHURCH

Methodist Pastor Tells of Activities During Past Fiscal Year

The annual report of Dr. C. M. Crist, pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal church of Glendale, follows in full:

A report that deals with spiritual experience and results, cannot be tabulated. It would be something of most compelling interest if it were possible for me to portray or in any way depict the soul advancement that has taken place during the last twelve months in the First Methodist church of Glendale. It would be a thrilling adventure into the realm of Spirit if we could but know the final results in one life, as they come to be at the close of another church year. How much more thrilling if we were able to tabulate the advancement made in the entire congregation. How our lives are linked together in this great enterprise, and how each has added to the whole as he has accumulated individual strength!

There is, of course, a suggestion that has already been made in your minds to the effect that the soul life does not necessarily advance. It is patently true that some here this morning would no doubt have to acknowledge that their spiritual sky is not so clear as it was a year ago. This is always and almost inevitably true in a large body of persons like this. As one, however, contemplates the general conditions and becomes impressed, not only with the goodness and mercy of God, but with the strong and mighty purposes of men as they look out toward the needs of time and the rewards of eternity, he finds himself in the spirit of thanksgiving. There is more of sunshine than of rain. There is more of hope than of despair. There is more of glory than of gloom. So let us thank God and take courage.

While spiritual experience, in a way, defies analysis and spiritual realities, because of their intangibility cannot be tabulated, it remains true that there are things that very clearly indicate as to whether the year's work has been a success or a failure. Progress may be marked in various ways and the trend of things clearly shown by a comparison of conditions as they now are with what they were a year ago. One who has climbed to the top of the mountain peak by a more or less circuitous trail finds much of heartease in standing at the top, and from that eminence, looking back over the wearisome way. This is good exercise for a church membership, especially if there should be here and there notes of discouragement that are being sounded.

Church School

In the first place, may I indicate our growing strength as a church by showing the increase in the church school? Whatever may be the determined disposition on the part of some to disparage the education feature of our church life, I am here to declare that the church school was never on so dignified a basis as at the present time. There are being used in our school certain methods and systems of operation that are bringing it into a place of increased efficiency and into the position before God and man where "we need not to be ashamed."

Under the capable superintendencies of the various departments, and with the help of the Department of Religious Education and the whole faculty of teachers, as they operate in their respective fields in our graded school, there has been such a marked advance that he who runs may read.

The Sunday sessions of the church school have been greatly enhanced in value because of the weekday sessions which were held last July, and which are to be a permanent activity of this church of all future years. At the beginning of the year there was a total enrollment of 877 in our church school, with an average attendance of 475. This year we report an enrollment of 1042 and an average attendance of 580.

Epworth League

The Epworth League, which now includes five high school departments, with an attendance of thirty-five, can report an average attendance much in advance of any other year in its history. In connection with this body there is maintained a young people's prayer meeting, which is held on Wednesday evenings with an attendance reaching as high as fifty. This meeting, so far as we are advised, is unique, there being no other such gathering in the entire district, or even in the Southern California conference.

The Junior League is now composed of the junior church members, and meets at the regular church hour on Sunday morning. After a sermonette particularly for them, these children retire to another part of the building where they engage in studies and exercises that are especially adapted to the ages included.

Church Membership

At the last annual conference there was reported a total membership of 986 (including those on preparatory membership). This year the number will be 1168, making a net increase of 182 for the year.

Financial

The year has been one of great financial prosperity. It is my pleasure to report to you that every bill has been paid in full on the current expense account, which includes all salaries and all improvements and additions to our church property. Not only is this true, but there is a surplus that is held over for the new year.

The centenary demand upon this church is $4,200 per year. At the last annual conference your pastor reported the centenary overpaid by $861. This being so, the amount that we were to raise this year was $3,339. This is the gratifying thing that I now have the pleasure to report. Instead of $3,339, we have paid $5,625, leaving us $2,286 to the good. Bishop Leonard, the resident bishop of this area, has sent a personal letter of congratulation to our church in this splendid victory, when so many of the churches are reporting deficits.

Possibly the outstanding financial achievement of the year has been the raising of over $20,000 by subscription for the payment of the entire indebtedness on the church and parsonage property, and also giving us the amount necessary for the seating of the gallery and the making of other much needed improvements. There has been actually paid in over $10,000 on debts and improvements. Part of this amount, however, came directly from the Ladies' Aid society. The present indebtedness on the church is $10,500, and on the parsonage $4,000, all of which is fully provided with ample allowances for shrinkage.

There is nothing but victory to report regarding the ladies' work of this church during the past year. No pastor in the entire conference has more for which he can justly boast concerning the women's organizations than has this pastor.

The Ladies' Aid society is a marvel of efficiency. Besides doing such splendid service socially to this entire community by throwing open our large dining room, as they have so many times during this last year, they have paid into the church $1,685.86. Furthermore, these noble women have made 3190 calls, which puts them clearly in the lead of the whole district.

The Woman's Home Missionary society reports an increase over last year of $500, making the surprising sum of $1,888.07. The Woman's Foreign society reports $695.98 in excess of last year, or a full amount of $1,574.98. These figures are simply amazing and they tell a most eloquent story.

The only excuse the pastor has for giving this more or less detailed report of the financial conditions is his conviction that the people who pay the bills and do the work in a great church like this, have a right to know what is being accomplished. It is so easy for one to be convinced that the work is falling below what might be reasonably expected. It is a source of greatest satisfaction to me personally to bring to you the facts capable of tabulation as to some of the results of our labors together. It is likewise a joy to me to know that with your fine enterprise and initiative I have given myself to the utmost in the accomplishment of this gigantic task. It is no easy place that a pastor of over 1100 members has to fill. I have conscientiously spent myself in an honest, earnest effort to help uphold the kingdom. In your homes, as your pastor, I have always come with an abiding purpose to be helpful. Some of the most sacred memories, feelings that I will carry with me forever, have resulted as we have prayed together for personal and collective blessings. I have made during the past year nearly 1500 calls, and I have tried to make every one of those calls count for the Lord's work.

I would be remiss in my duty did I not also publicly recognize the debt this church owes to the unit system and the unit leaders and their assistants. These worthy workers for the Lord are carefully conserving the interests of this church by an intelligent divisioning of the labors, and by an enthusiastic attempt to care for their respective communities. Over 1500 calls have been made by these unit workers in the last few months. These devoted persons are all of them assistants to the pastor in his otherwise impossible task.

When we add to all that has been said concerning financial and social matters, those spiritual values that are greatest in the Kingdom's work, we are forced to feel that we have been engaged in a work that is pre-eminently worth while. In spite of any pessimistic utterances that may be made, we are bound to recognize the fact that God's blessing has been upon the whole work of the church during this climatic year of its history.

In closing may I say that my pastorate with this church has been one of joy and privilege. There has never been a time during the past three years when I was not thankful in my heart for your co-operation and your earnest prayers. The very fact of the closing of the conference year suggests to the Methodist mind the possibility of a change. Should that change come, and should I be sent elsewhere to labor, I shall be glad for that privilege to serve. Should it be in the providence of God that I should be returned for another year, I will gladly come back. The matter is entirely in the hands of the bishop and his cabinet. And, as they are representing what we, as Methodists, are glad to believe is the will of God, I will loyally and earnestly obey.

Suspect In Phoenix Murder Disappears

PHOENIX, Ariz., Oct. 10.—Mystery today surrounded the whereabouts of the prominent Phoenix business man suspected of the murder of Guy N. Dernier, wealthy clubman, man-about-town and "love pirate," strangled to death here on September 1. The suspect, accompanied by his wife, was seen to board a train, ostensibly for Los Angeles, on Sunday night, and it was said today that he slipped out of the city without the knowledge of the sheriff's office.

Close on the heels of this report, Sheriff Montgomery of Phoenix planned to leave today for Boise, Ariz., where Dernier was said to have staged some of his famous "pajama parties," and for Los Angeles.

The sheriff said that he did not intend to make an arrest in Los Angeles, although he said he would take with him the single strand of woman's hair carefully guarded by the sheriff's office following its discovery in neatly folded clothes found on the bank of the irrigation canal into which Dernier's body had been cast by the slayer.

"The suspect's friends are numerous, so much so that, as they are the only ones who do possess valuable information, it is impos-

The MUCKER

by Edgar Rice Burroughs

Copyright 1921 by Edgar Rice Burroughs

Skipper Simms paid no attention to him. His eyes swept aloft to the upper deck. There he saw a wide-eyed girl and a man looking down upon them. He wondered if she was the one they sought. There were other women aboard. He could see them, huddled frightened behind Harding and Norris. Some of them were young and beautiful, but there was something about the girl above him that assured him she could be none other than Barbara Harding. To discover the truth Simmons resorted to a ruse, for he knew that were he to ask Harding outright if the girl were his daughter the chances were more than even that the old man would suspect something of the nature of their visit and deny her identity.

"Who is that woman you have on board here?" he cried in an accusing tone of voice. "That's what we're here to find out."

"Why, she's my daughter, man!" blurted Harding. "Who did you —"

"Thanks," said Skipper Simms, with a self-satisfied grin. "That's what I wanted to be sure of. Hey, you, Byrne! You're nearest the companionway—fetch the girl."

At the command the mucker turned and leaped up the stairway to the upper deck. Billy Mallory had overheard the conversation below and Simmons' command to Byrne. Disengaging himself from Barbara Harding who in terror and clutched his arm, he ran forward to the head of the stairway.

The men of the Lotus looked on in mute and helpless rage. All were covered by the guns of the boarding party—the still forms of two of their companions bearing eloquent witness to the glenderness of provocation necessary to tighten the trigger fingers of the beasts standing guard over them. Billy Byrne never hesitated in his rush for the upper deck. The sight of the man awaiting him above but whetted his appetite for battle. The trim flannels, the white shoes, the natty cap, were to the mucker as sufficient cause for justifiable homicide as is an orange ribbon in certain portions of the West Side of Chicago on St. Patrick's Day. As were "Remember the Maine" and "The Fighting Men of the Days that they were live things so were the habits of gentility to Billy Byrne at all times.

Billy Mallory was an older man than the mucker—twenty-four perhaps—and fully as large. For four years he had played right guard on a great eastern team, and for three he had pulled stroke upon the crew. During the two years since his graduation he had prided himself upon the maintenance of the physical supremacy that had made the name of Mallory famous in collegiate athletics; but in one vital essential he was hopelessly handicapped in combat with such as Billy Byrne, for Mallory was a gentleman.

As the mucker rushed upward toward him Mallory had all the advantage of position and preparedness, and had he done what Billy Byrne would have done under like circumstances he would have planted a kick in the midst of the mucker's facial beauties with all the power and weight and energy at his command; but Billy Mallory could no more have perpetuated a cowardly trick such as this than he could have struck a woman.

Instead, he waited, and as the mucker came on an even footing with him Mallory swung a vicious right for the man's jaw. Byrne ducked beneath the blow, came up inside Mallory's guard, and struck him three times with trip-hammer velocity and pile-driver effectiveness—once upon the jaw and twice—below the belt!

The girl, clinging to the rail, riveted by the paralysis of fright, saw her champion stagger back and half crumple to the deck. Then she saw him make a brave and desperate rally, as, though torn with agony, he lurched forward in an endeavor to clinch with the brute before him. Again the mucker struck his victim—quick choppy hooks that rocked Mallory's head from side to side, and again the brutal blow below the belt; but with the tenacity of a bulldog the man fought for a hold upon his foe, and at last, notwithstanding Byrne's best efforts, he succeeded in closing with the mucker and dragging him to the deck.

Here the two men rolled and tumbled, Byrne biting, gouging, and kicking while Mallory devoted all of his fast-waning strength to an effort to close his fingers upon the throat of his antagonist. But the terrible punishment which the mucker had inflicted upon him overcame him at last, and as Byrne felt the man's efforts weakening he partially disengaged himself and raising himself upon one arm dealt his now almost unconscious enemy a half-dozen frightful blows upon the face.

With a shriek Barbara Harding turned from the awful sight as Billy Mallory's bloody and swollen eyes rolled up and set, while the mucker threw the inert form roughly from him. Quick to the girl's memory sprang Mallory's recent declaration, which she had thought at the time but the empty and vainglorious boasting of the man in love—"Why I'd die for you, Barbara, and welcome the chance!"

"Poor boy! How soon, and how terribly has the chance come!" moaned the girl. Then a rough hand fell upon her arm.

"Here, youse," a coarse voice yelled in her ear. "Come out o' de trance, and at the same time she was jerked roughly toward the companionway.

Instinctively the girl held back, and then the mucker, true to his training, true to himself, gave her arm a sudden twist that wrenched a scream of agony from her white lips.

"Den come along," growled Billy Byrne, "an' quit dis monkey business, or I'll sure twist yer flipper clean off'm yeh."

With an oath, Anthony Harding sprang forward to protect his daughter; but the butt of Ward's pistol brought him unconscious to the deck.

"Go easy there, Byrne," shouted Skipper Simms; "there ain't no call to injure the hussy—a corpse won't be worthy nothing to us."

In mute terror the girl now permitted herself to be led to the deck below. Quickly she was lowered into a waiting boat. Then Skipper Simms ordered Ward to search the yacht and remove all firearms, after which he was to engage himself to navigate the vessel with her own crew under armed guard of half a dozen of the Halfmoon's cutthroats.

These things attended to, Skipper Simms with the balance of his own crew and six of the crew of the Lotus to take the places upon the brigantine of those left as a prize crew aboard the yacht returned to the Halfmoon.

The sailing vessel's sails were soon hoisted and trimmed, and in half an hour, followed by the Lotus, she was scudding briskly southward. For forty-eight hours this course was held until Simms felt assured that they were well out of the lane of regular trans-Pacific traffic.

During this time Barbara Harding had been kept below, locked in a small, untidy cabin. She had seen no one other than a giant Negro who brought her meals to her three times daily—meals that she returned scarcely touched.

Ho, Hum! Pretty Soft

It's a hard life riding in the new Pinto cars running between Chicago and San Francisco on one of the big transcontinental railroad lines.

Miss Loretta Homan.

There's no reason why one shouldn't travel nowadays and be just as comfortable as though he were in his own home, thinks Miss Loretta Homan. She is shown in one of the new "Pinto" cars which have been placed in service on the Chicago to San Francisco run of one of the big railroad companies.

The Pinto is the newest type of compartment car, put into service for fall and winter travel. There are but seven sleeping rooms in the car. It has a long aisle running down one side. Each compartment is provided with every home convenience and contains two large double berths as well as a day bed.

One can repose at night with all the ease of resting on the home feathers, and in the daytime it is "pretty soft" lounging about on the day bed and watching the scenery flash by as one looks out the window.

APPARATUS AND DEVICES

PRECISION VARIABLE AIR CONDENSERS

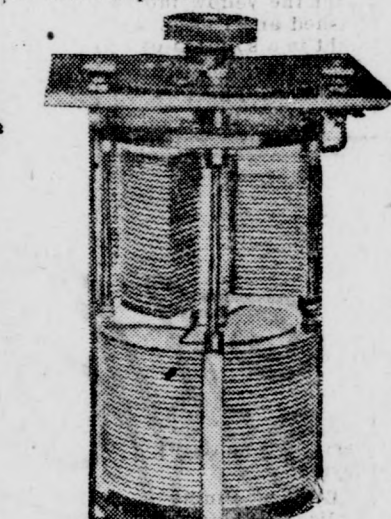

While the average individual has no need for the above type of precision condenser, there are clubs and associations whose experiments require instruments of this description.

The illustration shows a .005 mfd. condenser containing a total of fifty-six semi-circular fixed plates and fifty-eight semi-circular variable plates. The plates of the upper half of the condenser are mounted on the opposite side of the shaft from the similar lower plates, thus effectively balancing the system mechanically. This arrangement will hold any adjustment regardless of the position they are placed.

The system is fastened to two circular bakelite-dielectro end pieces, the upper of which is in turn fastened to the top of the condenser and is made of the same polished material. On the top is the rotary control knob and pointer, which is provided with an engraved 180 degree scale.

These condensers are mounted in oak cabinets and provided with calibration charts. They are made in three capacities.

ELECTRIC MEASUREMENTS

In the immediate preceding articles are several simple methods for detecting the current in a wire, and the direction of the current flow and magnetic effect. These methods also provide us with means of current measurement.

The heating effect of the current is utilized in hot wire instruments where the increase in length of the heated wire is utilized to move a pointer over a dial. These principles are used in a great variety of instruments for the measurement of current. The amount of current is read from the dial or scale of the instrument. The scale is usually graduated at the time when the instrument is standardized, in a unit called the "ampere." The instruments are called "ammeters." The ampere is an unit the magnitude of which has been defined by international agreement.

In its definition, the method previously described of attaching the ends of a charred wire to two metallic plates immersed in a solution of some substance like copper sulphate. There will be chemical change in the solution accompanied by a deposition of the metal copper on one of the plates. The mass of metal which is deposited out of a solution by an electric current depends on the product of the strength of the current by the time it is allowed to flow. Thus a certain current flowing for 100 seconds is found experimentally to be able to deposit as much of a metal as a current 100 times as great passing for one second, etc.

The ampere (properly called the international ampere) is that unvarying current which, when passed through a neutral solution of silver nitrate, will deposit silver at the rate of .001118 gram per second.

This means of measuring current is not done in actual everyday practice, but it is by the above method that the measuring instruments in actual use are standardized.

Who Is 'Lady Mab?' English Question

LONDON—Who is "Lady Mab?"

Arnold Bennett has set all London asking this question. In his new play, "Body and Soul," Arnold Bennett has created a central figure known as "Lady Mab," which is generally believed to be a burlesque of some well-known English woman.

"Lady Mab" is the daughter of a Marquis. She is photographed daily for the newspapers and occasionally writes for the newspapers. She has genius and a hunger for self-advertisement. Cabinet ministers tell her their secrets.

Bennett is evidently taking a sly slap at one of several English ladies of title. He doesn't miss a chance either to make capital of the gullibility of America, for when "Lady Mab" gets hard up she decides to go to America to lecture on "The Effect of Corset Advertisements on Morals." Who is this "Lady Mab?"

Uncle Wiggily Bedtime Stories

— BY HOWARD R. GARIS —

UNCLE WIGGILY AND LITTLE GIDDIE

Once upon a time there was a little pussy cat girl named Giddie. The reason she had this name was because she had a funny trick of chasing her tail around and around. And when she did this too much she became dizzy, or giddy, and would fall down.

"Oh, what a little Giddie she is!" her Daddy would say, and so that is how Giddie was named.

Uncle Wiggily Longears, the bunny rabbit gentleman, lived in his hollow stump bungalow, not far from Giddie's house. And one day, when Uncle Wiggily was hopping around, looking for an adventure, he met the little Giddie pussy.

"Where are you going, Giddie?" asked Uncle Wiggily.

"I am looking for a house where a little girl named Jean and a little boy named Bobbie live," answered Giddie. "I want to go and live with them and chase my tail."

"Ha! ha!" laughed the bunny rabbit, with a jolly twinkle of his pink nose. "I think I know where Bobbie and Jean live, so if you will come with me, Giddie, I'll show you the way."

"Oh, thank you, Uncle Wiggily!" meowed Giddie, and straightway she began to chase her tail.

"Don't do that, please," begged Uncle Wiggily.

"Why not?" asked Giddie, as she made two or three turns, whirling like a merry-go-round.

"Why shouldn't I do it?" "Oh, you'll get dizzy and fall down and then I'll have to pick you up and carry you and maybe we'll never get to the house of Bobbie and Jean," said Uncle Wiggily.

"All right—I'll stop whirling," meowed Giddie. Then she walked along beside Uncle Wiggily, with her tail up in the air like a fish pole. The bunny gentleman hopped on and on, twinkling his pink nose, coming nearer and nearer to the home of Bobbie and Jean, where little Giddie wished to stay for a time.

All of a sudden the pussy girl turned a somersault, leaping up in the air and down again like a chipmunk, and she cried:

"Oh, Uncle Wiggily, I just have to do it!"

"Do what?" the bunny gentleman wanted to know.

"I just have to chase my tail!" laughed Giddie. "I don't care if I get a wee bit dizzy, I'm going to chase my tail!"

And chase it she did, going around and around like a pin wheel at Fourth of July.

"Look out!" cried Uncle Wiggily. But it was too late.

Just as the bunny gentleman feared, Giddie became dizzy. She staggered around like a top that is ready to stop, and a moment later poor Giddie fell down.

And that wasn't the worst of it! Near her was an open well of water, and Giddie fell in the well. Oh, dear!

"Mew! Mew! Mew!" cried Giddie.

"On the watch," said Mrs. Nagatem. "Your manners are getting worse. Today at Mrs. Smith's I saw you take your handkerchief and wipe off the chair before you sat down. And, worst of all, the darling little boy was watching you."

"Yes, my dear," replied Mr. Nagatem, "and I was watching the darling little boy, too. I'm too old to get caught on that bent pin stuff."

NOT SURE
A minister, on the occasion of a marriage, was at loss in trying to discover the bridegroom among the company of young men present.

Fixing on a young man with a large flower in his buttonhole, he asked him quietly: "Are you a happy man?"

"That remains to be seen," was the solemn answer.

"But are you the man who is to be married?"

"Oh, that's another matter."

UNCALIENT COMPARISON
A fashionable woman who to save expense collected her own rents, found one of her tenants in a bad humor. She thought it wise to forestall his complaints by making one or two herself.

"And the kitchen, Mr. Holt," she said, "is in a terrible condition."

"Yes, ma'am, it is," agreed Mr. Holt, "and you'd look the same way if you hadn't had any paint on you for six years."

"Is Clark still agitating against the tipping evil and refusing to tip?"

"No. He got the same barber twice."

BEYOND RECALL
Kross: "Can you recall the day you lent me ten dollars?"

Kross: "No, but I'd like to."

been clinging to a stone at the side of the well, dug her claws into the soft wood of the grape vine.

"Pull me up!" meowed Giddie, and Uncle Wiggily and Johnnie pulled as hard as they could.

Up came Giddie out of the well. She was wet, but not otherwise hurt, and soon the warm sun and the wind had dried her fur.

"My! That was a wonderful adventure!" laughed Uncle Wiggily. But it was not all, for suddenly through the woods came sneaking the bad Bob Cat.

"I want ears!" howled the Bob Cat.

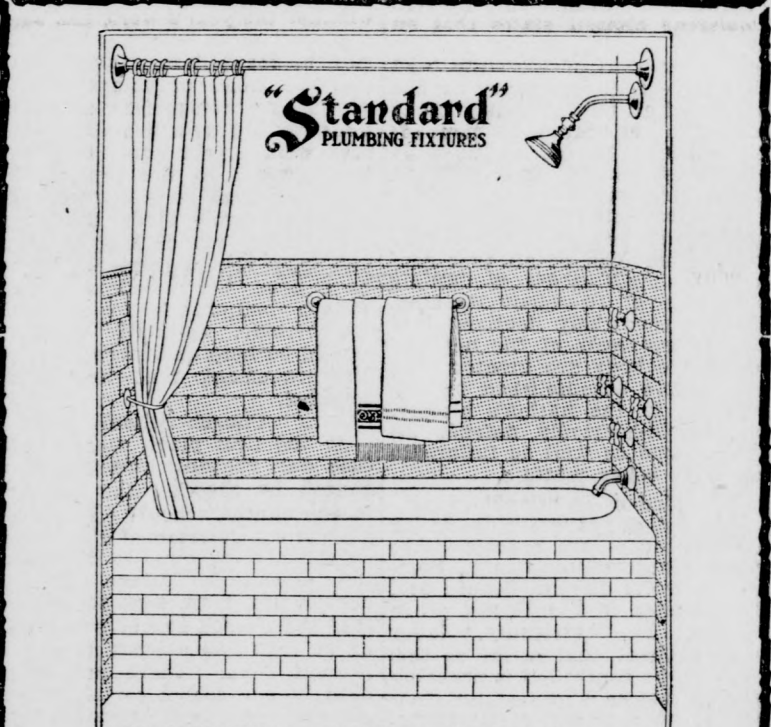

"See if you can get mine!" cried Giddie, and at once she began to chase her tail again. Around and around the went, faster and faster, like an electric fan. And the Bob Cat, looking at Giddie, became so dizzy that he fell over and couldn't get up again.

Of course, Giddie fell down, but was away from the well now, and didn't topple in that.

"Quick, Uncle Wiggily!" meowed Giddie. "You and Johnnie pick me up and run away with me before the Bob Cat stands up!" And the bunny and squirrel did this, taking Giddie to the home of Bobbie and Jean, where she yet lives—if she hasn't run away. And whenever she feels jolly she chases her tail.

So, if the steamboat doesn't blow its whistle and make believe it's a traffic policeman to stop the clock, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily and the nut run.

FULFILLING PROMISES BY PERFORMANCE.

Promises may get friends, but it is performance that must keep them. —Feltham

The test of business vitality is in performance, not in promises. If this were not so, anyone could attain success without effort, simply by setting up an imposing sign or publishing impressive promises of fair dealing.

But few succeed, while many fail. The law is "give and take," and those who chiefly take, without giving "value received," never attain the heights.

Because its promises have been conscientiously and consistently carried out in performance, the L. G. Scovern Co. has succeeded.

Stabbed by Neuritis!

Many people suffer attacks by this arch-fiend, commonly called "nerve inflammation." The first warning is usually a sharp, stabbing pain, which may "come and go" or hurt constantly. You may feel it in the shoulder, neck, forearm, or in the back, or down the thigh and leg to the heel. It is sometimes mistaken for sciatic rheumatism or neuralgia, which often end in neuritis.

No matter where you have nerve pains or what caused them, you can get quick relief without using narcotics or poison. Just apply Tysmol over the part that hurts, and in a few minutes the pain will be gone. Tysmol is absorbed through the pores of the skin. It has a soothing, healing effect upon the diseased nerves, gradually helping to restore them to healthy condition.

Don't suffer any longer. Price $1 at Roberts & Echols, Tysmol Co., Mgrs. Chemists, 400 Sutter Street, San Francisco.—Advertisement.

A VIRTUE WITH A BAD NAME

Give a dog a bad name and hang him.
Give a virtue a bad name and damn it.

And that, I think, is exactly what has happened to a certain highly honorable virtue in America.

Thrift means economy and frugality in the management of property. It is one of the essential foundations of all success. No man can keep on making a success in business unless the principles of thrift, which are avoidance of waste and careful utilization of time and money, are used in his business.

Why Not the Business of Saving? No man means to spend money in business without getting an adequate return. And no one questions that an admirable attitude. But in the business of living—well, somehow that is supposed to be a different thing. If a man is thrifty in his use of time and money in his private life we are inclined to look at him askance, to call him "close," to say he probably has Scotch blood in him—to our mind one could pay no greater compliment but perhaps I am a bit prejudiced for obvious reasons.)

The average American would far rather be called a spendthrift than to have it said he was careful in his use of money.

Yet what is being careful in the use of money but trying to get the most out of your life, since the money you earn represents your life that is spent in the earning of it.

Money—Time—Life Benjamin Franklin says we should not waste time and wish it away if we stopped to think that we were wishing away our lives. And since money is simply time converted into the power to buy other people's time, when we waste money, do not make it yield its full purchasing power, we waste life.

In the old days thrift was recognized as one of the cardinal virtues of a woman. "Many things make the honor of man," says an old Greek proverb, "few that of a woman. Economy, modesty and silence adorn a woman." We are inclined to laugh at that point of view now. But we do not laugh at the troubles that follow our failure to exalt that virtue. We carry them to the divorce courts when the woman of the family spends the man's money so foolishly that the home is wrecked. One is sorry for the woman whose training may have included no conception of the value of money, no teaching as to how to get the most out of it. But one is terribly sorry for the man who sees a part of his life thrown away when the woman fails to get full value for the money his time has been exchanged for.

Thrift and Generosity

Doubtless one of the reasons we do not honor the virtue of thrift as we should is that we associate it with stinginess. Of course it can degenerate into that. But thrift does not need to be associated with meanness. On the contrary, says a certain well known Scotchman who is indignant defending the honor of his people, "I have yet to learn that thrift and generosity cannot be twin virtues and my experience is that they are generally to be found together."

I agree with him. The most generous person I have ever met is the thriftiest. Incidentally, as Mr. Lauder would be glad to hear, she is a Scotch woman.

Corsets Here to Stay, Says Noted French Authority on Dress; Disclaim Dictator Role

Makes Up Many Models Each Year; Is Puzzled by Selections

By GEORGE HITZLER
NEW YORK, Oct. 10. — This may be a shock to the women of America but, if properly interpreted, should instead give understanding and comfort.

The famous M. Paul Poiret, of Paris, is not at all a dictator of women's fashions.

He granted me an interview at his suite in the Ritz-Carlton. I wanted to find out how it is that fashions arise and predominate, and said to him that I had come, therefore, to a recognized source of authority.

"Oh, I am not an oracle at all. Many interviewers misunderstand my rough English and portray me as saying silly things which I have not said," he answered. "I do not pose as a dictator or an authority on fashions, I merely feel the tendencies of mode."

"But how does mode arise," I asked.

"I really do not know," he replied. "Every year I make up about two hundred models and why women choose what they do is more than I can explain. It is my profession to make something new in keeping with what I feel women of taste desire. I do not at all seek to impose my taste upon them."

In recent interviews M. Poiret was quoted as saying that corsets had passed, and so I asked whether he had been correctly quoted. He replied that he had referred only to the old-fashioned stiff corset which bound in women's waists unnaturally.

"That corset, of course, is gone. It was impossible and never will return," he explained. "The tendency is toward natural lines and the modern corset which assists women to keep them is bound to stay. Women want a soft corset of hygienic character."

By "hygienic" M. Poiret explained that he meant a corset in keeping with nature's requirements. "Some women," he said, "try to reason these things out logically and others follow their instincts. Some parts of a woman's figure must be supported. Women are not so strong as we are and need, and always will need, some assistance in the way of a corset."

Paul Poiret, of Paris

He showed me a letter from the Association of Overworked, Underpaid, Dishwashing Housewives who had taken the trouble to tell him that there is no more need of styles or fashions, and that people could live very happily without them. Nevertheless, he said, fashion exists and there is no use blinking the fact. Even for members of this association, he said, naturally constructed corsets are a necessity.

Sometimes he is too far ahead of the times in sensing the trend of fashions, M. Poiret admitted. For instance, he said fifteen years ago he had felt that the use of knickerbockers would become general. But, he pointed out, it was only at this late day that they were beginning to come into general use.

The French artist is a very democratic sort of person, quite devoid of egotism, and does not desire to impress his opinions upon the public, but merely seeks to interpret and visualize the trend of the times, giving to that interpretation, of course, the benefit of his own well-trained taste.

Book Reviews

An intensified or condensed description of some of the most popular books by prominent authors is contained in "When Winter Comes to Main Street," which was written by Grant Overton and published recently by the George H. Doran company. The title of this book was borrowed from two remarkable novels: "If Winter Comes," by A. S. M. Hutchinson and "Main Street" by Sinclair Lewis, and it is really a collection of flying leaves from autumn books.

"When Winter Comes to Main Street," many people will be reading and wishing for something good to read, and it is for just these thousands that Mr. Overton has written these lively chapters on the foremost authors and their latest books.

There are interesting sketches of the various artists and personal pictures and bits from the newest novels of Hugh Walpole, Stewart Edward White, Rebecca West, Mary Roberts Rinehart, Arnold Bennett, Irving S. Cobb, Richard Dehan, Frank Swinnerton and Stephen McKenna. By reading these sketches one may soon learn which type of author and his books will best suit his taste. The intermediate chapters, upon such topics as "Half-Smiles and Gestures," "Places to Go," "With Full Directions," "They Have Only Themselves to Blame," "A Chap-

They Say That

Colonel Repington, British correspondent, found many amazing things in America during his recent visit to attend the Arms Parley. But, among the wonders of New York, nothing seems to have made a more vivid impression on his mind than her Public Library.

In his recent book, "After the War," Repington tells how astonished he was on his first visit to the library, not at its size and the number of books, but at the number of readers.

Apparently, in no other country among the scores he had visited was there such an interest in books. A friend assured him that it was a mere surface interest in passing fiction, but he refused to be convinced.

A recent annual report of the institution contains some interesting sidelights on what the representative public of New York is actually feeding itself mentally.

The total circulation of books for home use during 1921, was 10,000,000 volumes.

This indicates a tremendous army of readers, whose tastes, according to the report, were such that it was impossible to meet the demand for Dickens, Thackeray, Scott, Hawthorne and Cooper.

In fact, books by these and other standard authors were literally "read to tatters."

The report also shows that the American friend, who assured Repington the great throngs in the reading rooms were mere loiterers did them an injustice.

Poetry, drama, essays, biography, economics and history, together with periodicals of a high type, were in much favor with the readers throughout the year.

BEAUTY CHATS

ANSWERED LETTERS

A. M.:—There should never be a scar following the removal of superfluous hair by the electric needle. Try a simple astringent that is also healing, such as witch hazel. For a skin as dry as yours it is essential to massage into it as much cream as the skin will absorb. Wipe off the surplus cream since you do not like the oil on the face. When feeding the skin in this way there is no necessity for a facial massage; merely use the finger tips to work the cream into the pores.

Melba:—A powder which is used in the place of soap for blackheads is made by mixing 2 ounces of corn starch, 1 ounce of powdered borax and 1 ounce of almond meal. Hold hot, wet cloths over the face, then take a little powder on the fingers and rub thoroughly into the wet skin; repeat until you have used quite a bit of the powder, which the skin will absorb. Wash out with hot water and massage in a little cream.

Varna:—There is no indication that bobbed hair is going out of fashion. There is a movement among some hairdressers to hold this style for daytime; for evening wear they suggest encircling much of the head in swirls of soft net of the same color as the hair, or covering it with hair switches; all of which is such an affectation as is not likely that many women will care to disguise the fact that the hair is bobbed, since it is so youthful when it is becoming.

Marie C.:—You can train your eyebrows to lie flat if you brush them into place every morning.

Use small stiff bristled brush for this. Astringents:—Henna is not a dye but the preparations that claim to color the hair black, or any other than the natural shade of henna, are usually dyes, even though they include henna with the other colors.

M. M.:—For the oily skin, use some simple astringent, such as witch hazel or a few drops of benzoin in a basin of water when rinsing the face after cleansing the pores.

D. S.:—A curling liquid is made by dissolving gum tragacanth with hot water, until it becomes a thin mullage. Dampen the hair with this before putting it up in curlers. Comb it out after the glue has dried and then shake out all the loose particles.

P. F. G.:—If your legs are covered with pimples and blackheads your blood needs to be purified and the pores of the skin cleansed. Start with the digestion and correct any trouble there, after which keep the whole system cleansed. Use a bathbrush and scrub the skin with hot water and soap. The blackheads on the legs have resulted from wearing such sheer hosiery when the pores of the skin were already coarsened from trying to relieve the system of excess waste.

Tomorrow—Soothing Powders. All inquiries addressed to Miss Forbes in care of the "Beauty Chats" department will be answered in these columns in their turn. This requires considerable time, however, owing to the great number received. So, if a personal or quicker reply is desired, a stamped and self-addressed envelope must be enclosed with the question.—The Editor.

Practical Housekeeping by Florence Austin Chase

LAUNDERING AIDS

Bleaching.—The sun is one of the very best bleaching agents. We frequently hear the older housekeepers remark that their household linens "do not last as long as they used to." Chemicals are almost universally used to bleach linens, and poor bleaching affects the wearing quality. Commercial laundries sometimes use an excess of acid for bleaching. Cream of Tartar is a harmless bleach. Javelle water is another house bleach, chloride of lime being the bleaching substance.

Cream of Tartar Bleach.—Dissolve cream of tartar in hot water, using one teaspoon to each quart. After the yellow fabrics have been washed and rinsed, lay them overnight in a solution of this strength, rinse, blue, and dry in the sun the next morning.

Javelle Water.—Dissolve one-fourth pound chloride of lime in one quart cold water; dissolve one pound salt soda in one quart boiling water. Stir together thoroughly, allow the mixture to stand several hours, pour off the clear water with care, and bottle it. To use: Use one tablespoonful of the solution to a gallon of water, and heat the yellowed fabric in this mixture after thorough washing, for one-half hour, not allowing the temperature to rise above 100 degrees Fahrenheit. Rinse very thoroughly before bluing and drying.

Bluing.—Bluing is used to neutralize the slightly yellowish tint of the fabric, when it cannot be completely bleached. The soap and heat used in washing have a tendency to develop a yellow tint. Blue is a complementary color to yellow, and a treatment of the goods in a bath of a blue color neutralizes the yellow tint. Various blue dyes, and the pigments, Prussian blue and ultramarine, are used for the purpose. Ultramarine is better than Prussian blue, owing to the fact that the latter is an iron compound which reacts with bases or alkalis to form ferric hydroxide. Hence red spots, which are practically iron rust sometimes develop on clothing that has been blued with Prussian blue. If this happens, it is because all of the soap was not rinsed out of the clothes before they were put in the bluing water. Prussian blue is usually sold in liquid form. Aniline blue is a strong color, and in a very dilute solution gives a pleasing pearly tint to the fabric, especially when the violet tint is used. Mix one ounce of the blue with one gallon water, and bottle for use.

Starching.—Starch is used to give a smoothness and stiffness to the cloth that prevents the rumpling of garments. Both wheat and cornstarch are used for laundry purposes when only the natural starches are available, the wheat starch being better for home-laundering, as the cornstarch gives a quality that is too stiff and crackling. There is, however, on the market very good brands of "thin" boiling starch made from corn. Rice starch or "rice water" is used for starching very thin muslins.

To Make Starch.—For lingerie use one teaspoonful of starch to one quart of boiling water. For medium fabrics use one and one-half to three tablespoons of starch to one quart of water. For stiff work, use five tablespoons of starch to one quart of water.

The starch must be perfectly smooth, and should be stirred while it is boiling for a few minutes, and strained.

It's a Fact

HE SHOULD REDUCE

Because the owner of the smallest store in the world has gained five pounds it was necessary recently to close down the establishment while space was made to accommodate his extra avoirdupois. Milton Lubin, a jeweler, runs a store in a triangular cubby hole on Times Square in New York. His floor space is 5 feet by 3½ feet. He was able to get around when he weighed 95 pounds but had to change things when he tipped the scales at the 100-mark.

FIRST BULBS POINTED OUT Old timers may recall that the first electric light bulb always pointed upward. That was because Thomas A. Edison, inventor, thought the electric flame, like a gas flame, must ascend. Afterwards he discovered that an electric flame in any position would produce light. Now most of the bulbs point downward.

BIGGEST SILENT CITY Greenwood cemetery in Brooklyn, comprising 475 acres, was opened in 1840, and since that time more than 300,000 burials have been made in it. Among the noted monuments in Greenwood cemetery are those erected in memory of Horace Greeley, James Gordon Bennett, John Matthews, the Brown brothers, S. F. R. Morse, Mary M. Daner, Charlotte Canda, Capt. Carraja and A. S. Scribner. The soldiers' monument, the firemen's monument, the Brooklyn theater monument, the pilot monument and the bronze statue of DeWitt Clinton are also worthy of notice.

Pretty Good Folks

The other day a gentleman sat in the visitor's chair by our desk for a few moments.

"Folks don't visit like they used to do," he said, a bit plaintively. "When I was younger, friends spent an evening together now and then and men called one another by their first names. Things didn't seem so hurried."

And it's quite true. This is a hurried age. There isn't, somehow, much time for leisurely procedure in anything.

Doubtless, that's the reason why, every now and then, you hear it said, "I don't like that man." Usually it means, of course, "I don't know that man," but the result is all the same. Worry and hurry and strife cause lots of misunderstandings.

Here at the bank we are privileged to know a great many men in an intimate business way, and we don't mind admitting that we like folks, take them all in all. This bank is not so large but what we can take time to KNOW our customers and understand their needs.

We believe you'd like us, too, if you'd pause long enough to get acquainted. Ours, you know, is a "Bank of Personal Service"—a friendly bank.

KIDNEYS—NO. II

Yesterday I gave you a look at the anatomy of the kidneys. Today I want to tell you something of their intimate structure.

It would require the descriptive power of a Scott or a Dumas to do them justice, for they really are the most beautiful organs in the body. Long lanes of uniferous tubules, lined with sparkling epithelial cells are closely accompanied by a trellis work of blood vessels and nerves reaching over and under them. Suddenly the straight lanes are changed to many beautiful curves and finally they end by dividing into two closed ends surrounding and closely embracing a rich grove of tiny blood vessels.

The kidneys are undoubtedly the most exquisitely constructed organs in the body. Besides being so beautiful, they are the most industrious organs in the body. A combination of beauty and integrity that is wonderful.

The more one studies and knows of the kidneys the more respect one has for them. Nature has placed them very close to the main blood vessels of the body, and has given them a larger artery and vein in proportion to their size than any other organ, because she wants to form a short shunt to convey to them their working material, the blood.

All of the blood of the body has to pass through the kidney factories every few minutes. There is no organ that works so incessantly as the kidneys do. The heart has a little rest between beats and the secretory organs rest somewhat until their secretions are needed, but the little kidney keeps on the job every minute. They are always busy. Their work consists of filtering all of the blood and taking out the waste products with which it is more or less loaded. The cells lining the tubules show an uncanny intelligence. In one portion they permit the filtration through them of the excess water and waste products and in another portion the cells reabsorb any of the products of the blood which have passed through but are still needed by the blood.

It is just as if some of the cells were sort of overseers that closely guard the work of the cells which permit the filtration so that nothing vital is lost from the blood and only the waste products and the excess water are allowed to get by in the form we know as the urine. In this way they maintain the normal composition of the blood and body fluids.

If one kidney has to be removed for any reason, the remaining one gallantly enlarges and does the work of the two. You can see from this description that we should treat the kidneys with profound respect. They are patient and long suffering but if we permit our blood to get loaded with too much waste material or poisons of any kind eventually they suffer and cannot carry on.

If it should happen that they suffer from overwork or acute or chronic poisoning, and cannot perform their functions satisfactorily some of the material that the blood actually needs will escape and many of the waste products which should be filtered out cannot be filtered and are retained in the blood. This causes all sorts of derangements, not only to the kidneys themselves but to all of the other organs.

The kidney cells can be injured by bacterial poisons and the bacteria themselves, which get into the blood from infected spots anywhere in the body such as infected tonsils and teeth, nose sinuses and other portions of the body, and from the acute infectious diseases, such as scarlet fever, pneumonia, diphtheria, etc.

The kidneys can also be injured by poisons such as lead and arsenic, alcohol and other drugs. There is no doubt but that they can be slowly but surely injured by having to overwork on blood which is loaded with waste products from excess food.

Osler says that a large portion of the arterio-sclerosis (hardening and degeneration of the arteries) is due to intemperance in eating. The blood vessels of the kidneys are affected in this condition. Therefore you can see that there are many forms of injuries of the kidneys which we can directly control.

Tomorrow—Bright's Disease.

BURBANK NO. 2 Two customers wanted to buy some fruit of Ernest Tovosky, fruit grower near Edwardsville, Ill. One asked for a basket of free stone peaches and the other for a basket of clings. Tovosky picked the two baskets from the same tree. The customers protested until they were convinced Tovosky was making a practice of growing two or more kinds of peaches on the same tree.

SEALS AND TIGERS IN HOT CONTEST FOR 1922 FLAG

Just Two Games Separate Leaders; Callahan and Farrell Box Tonight

Now that the world's series is over, local baseball fans are directing their attention to the Pacific Coast league race, which is this afternoon swinging into the final week of the 1922 season with the two leading teams separated by a margin of but two full games. San Francisco, with probably the best aggregation of players ever assembled on a single minor league team, gained a contest on Bill Essick's Vernon Tigers last week in spite of the fact that they lost the series to Los Angeles, Vernon entirely upset the dope, which had it that then was the time for Meier's men to clinch the consolation, by dropping five out of seven encounters with Ivan Howard's inconsistent Oaks.

This week's games find the two contenders reversed in their opponents of last week, San Francisco tackles Oakland in the north, while Vernon and Los Angeles will battle it out at Washington park. One of the strange coincidences surrounding the two series is the fact that, although the opponents in each case may both be classed as "home teams," the rivalries existing between them are as keen as though they were in separate leagues. This fact alone, if for no other, will insure the fans of seeing two of the most fought series in the history of the circuit.

Callahan and Farrell
Wad Wadhams, matchmaker of Jack Doyle's Vernon boxing arena, has announced that Jimmy Callahan, sensational Sacramento featherweight, will meet Young Farrell in the main event of the weekly fight card tonight. It will mark the first appearance of Callahan before southern California fans in several weeks, and he is expected to be in better shape than ever, due to the rest. Farrell is fighting better today than at any time since he has been performing in local rings.

The semi-windup will bring Jimmy Marcus and Bobby Allen, a classy pair of welterweights, together in what promises to be the feature of the evening's card. Both men are sluggers from the word "go" and a regular battle is anticipated.

The other bouts are as follows: Eddie Roberts vs. Louie Stegmeyer, Robert Moran vs. George West, Ray Schauer vs. George Rivers, Johnny Welch vs. Bobby Gray, Joe Murphy vs. Paddy Coggins.

Wrestling Tournament
The annual amateur wrestling championship tournament for the southern California titles at various weights will take place next Saturday night at Riverside, according to an announcement made yesterday by Walter Miller, wrestling instructor of the Los Angeles Athletic club. The bouts, which will be staged in connection with the Southern California fair, will be conducted under the auspices of the southern branch of the Amateur Athletic Union. Following are a few of the many high-class entries which have already been made for the tournament: Russell Viss, national 147-pound titleholder; Calvin Patton, southern California champion in both the 135 and 145 pound divisions; Allen Ferguson, 175-pound champion; Johnny Humerick, lightweight leader; Clark Connors and others.

Huggins Leaves on Atlantic City Rest

NEW YORK, Oct. 10.—Miller Huggins, manager of the New York Yankees, left today for Atlantic City, where he will rest for several weeks, preparatory to undergoing an operation. Huggins has been ill for weeks, but refused to leave the club during its fight for the pennant and the world series.

The Sport Crucible

By Davis J. Walsh
International News Service Sports Edition

NEW YORK, Oct. 10.—The officers of the New York Yankees have become overnight a clearing house for rumors and counter rumors, the most plausible of which is that Edward G. Barrows, now business manager, will replace Miller Huggins as the active leader of the ball club. This comes from semi-official sources and as such is worthy of credence. The others are guesses, merely that.

They profess to prove as fact that Carl Mays, Aaron Ward and Norman McMillan are to be traded to the White Sox for Dick Kerr and Eddie Collins, the latter to be made manager of the club; that Babe Ruth and Bob Meusel are to be knocked down to the highest bidders; that "Bullet Joe" Bush is to be sent on his way as punishment for his outbreak against Huggins in the eighth inning of Sunday's world series game and that Ruth, if not sold or traded, is to have his contract revised.

Meantime, Jake Ruppert, diplomatic as always, has issued a statement to the effect that Huggins can stay "at his health permits." We have an idea that this impossible Ruppert does not hold Huggins responsible for the terrible playing of the Yankees in the world series. No sane man can. But he may be made to yield to pressure and the fact that Huggins is understood to desire an owner's berth in the American association might further influence the colonel.

Expect Gibbons to Prepare for Fight

NEW YORK, Oct. 10.—Tom Gibbons, a leading heavyweight contender, is expected to arrive today from Chicago to finish training for the 15-round bout with Billy Miske at Madison Square Garden Friday.

Near East Meeting 'Morass of Intrigue'

LONDON, Oct. 10.—The Near East conference at Mudania is described as a "morass of intrigue, prevarication and underground politics" in a report received by the war office this afternoon from General Sir Charles Harrington, British commander at Constantinople and British delegate to the conference. The cabinet met to discuss it. General Harrington asked for further instructions owing to the dilatory methods of the Turkish delegation, who is obstructing the conference on minor points, meanwhile making conciliatory speeches.

Premier Lloyd George is reported to be planning to make a great speech, probably on Saturday, defending himself against personal attacks regarding Near East policy and perhaps outlining his political future.

Notwithstanding the onslaughts from all sides it is understood that the premier is unlikely to resign until Europe is more quiet and the Near East crisis is on the way to settlement. More than 400,000 Greek refugees, mostly women, old men and children, are massed in Greece, Thrace, and upon islands in the Aegean sea threatened with death from starvation and exposure. All were driven from their Near East homes by the war between the Turks and Greeks and all are penniless.

The British and French are now turning their entire attention to the relief of the Greek and Armenian refugees. Hundreds of thousands of them will have to be evacuated from Constantinople and Thrace before the peace treaty is signed and the Turkish soldiers occupy both these districts.

A Minnesota man has visited the state fair at St. Paul every year since 1870. It's getting to be a habit with him.

BASEBALL LEADERS CONTINUE BATTLE ON GAMBLERS

Authorities Are Not After Man of Small Wagers, but Professionals

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—"You can't stop betting" on baseball for the gamblers," a prominent baseball official said recently, in discussing the efforts of club owners to remove the gambling menace from the game.

Since 1919 earnest efforts have been made to check the activities of gamblers. The big operators were barred from most of the parks and the use of telephones on the grounds was restricted. In several parks the phones have been removed entirely.

Private detectives are also employed to mix in the crowds in the stands and take any offenders to the gate.

After Big Follies
"It isn't the little gamblers that we watch. We know there isn't any particular harm in two friends making a bet of a dollar or two that one team will win or that a batter will get on base or something like that. We consider that a friendly wager. Even bets up into one or two hundred dollars aren't enough to cause concern, but when money starts to be put up in the thousands we get busy," the official said.

"There is also a big difference in who is doing the betting. There are many sportsmen who could make a bet of $10,000 or $15,000 and we would not be suspicious. We have gone far enough into it to know who the dangerous gamblers are and when they show any signs of activity we get busy. "We do go after petty gambling when it becomes a nuisance or annoying to spectators. Several years ago there was a little ring that used to go to the Polo grounds and make a book or small bets. They ran around through the crowd and bothered the fans who were trying to watch the game. This practice has been entirely stopped."

Baseball officials figure the action of the St. Louis player in turning over the Douglas "fishing" was the finest stroke made against the big gamblers. They believe that the big operators will be very slow about approaching any player when they are running the risk of being exposed.

Gamblers In Plot
The Southern association recently had a big scandal when it was learned that a gambling ring was trying to fix telegraph operators in the ball parks to delay the account of the game by one play and tip them off by code to what had happened. The gamblers approached a telegraph operator and he turned them in to the company.

It was learned later in the investigation that at least one operator in one of the league cities had "accepted terms." He was sending one play behind and tipping off what had happened. With information that a better had already reached first, the gamblers were cashing in on bets, that he would get on base, etc.

Postal authorities were brought into the case after several arrests are expected. As the proposition was presented through the mails, the government has grounds for prosecution.

Golf Champ Unable to Leave Hospital

NEW YORK, Oct. 10.—As a result of an operation for appendicitis, Gene Sarazen, recognized as the world's champion golfer, will lose thousands of dollars guaranteed him for exhibition matches. According to physicians, Sarazen will not be able to leave the hospital for three weeks and is not likely to play again for several months, if then. It may even be necessary for Sarazen to abandon a tour of the Pacific coast arranged for him for the coming winter season.

The World Over

By FRANKLIN B. MORSE
PACIFIC SPORTS SERVICE

It doesn't make a particular bit of difference which side wins, the "I told you so" guy always can be found on the job.

One devotee of the ancient and honorable Scotch game ventured the prophecy that the Yankees would win the world's series because "There are more golfers among the Yanks, and that will decide it in their favor if the struggle developed very close and nerve-racking."

Our office boy says he doesn't set any store by whether or not the members of a baseball team know anything about golf or not. He claims that the Lord is on the side of the heaviest hitters and the best pitchers.

It is hard to get any sympathy for the fellow who is reported to have been injured on the football field. There has been so much of this stuff peddled in the past merely as a sort of psychological propaganda that the public turned up its nose nowadays and sniffs. Nothing short of a missing leg or arm will convince that the player will not be in the important game of the season.

SAGE TEA DANDY
TO DARKEN HAIR
It's Grandmother's Recipe to Bring Back Color and Lustre to Hair
You can turn gray, faded hair beautifully dark and lustrous almost over night if you'll get a bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound" at any drug store. Millions of bottles of this old famous Sage Tea Recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients, are sold annually, says a well-known druggist here, because it darkens the hair so naturally and evenly that no one can tell it has been applied.

Those whose hair is turning gray or becoming faded have a surprise awaiting them, because after one or two applications the gray hair vanishes and your locks become luxuriantly lark and beautiful.

This is the age of youth. Gray-haired, unattractive folks aren't wanted around, so get busy with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound tonight and you'll be delighted with your dark, handsome hair and your youthful appearance within a few days.—Advertisement.

SOCIAL EVENTS

QUEEN ESTHER GIRLS
Miss Dorothy Peart of 801
South Maryland avenue was hostess at a cafeteria dinner last night
to the members of the Queen
Esther girls of the Women's Home
Missionary society of the First Methodist church, of which she is president.
There were twenty present.
A social hour preceded the dinner, which was followed by a business meeting. The members decided to give an entertainment
of two plays the third week in November.

FEDERATION WILL MEET
The Glendale Federation of Parent-Teacher associations, of which Mrs. E. B. Moore is president, will meet tomorrow afternoon at 2:15 o'clock in the Union high school cafeteria. George U.
Moyle, principal of the high school, will speak on "School Bonds," and Richardson D. White, superintendent of city school, will speak on "Community Service."

The members of Chapter L, P.
E. O., will hold an all-day meeting Wednesday at the home of Mrs. David L. Gregg, 240 North Central avenue, beginning at 10:30 o'clock. The program will include the study of "The Discovery of America." Members have been asked to bring thimbles and needles.

ARTS AND CRAFTS SECTION
Work on silk and velvet flowers occupied the time at the special meeting last night of the Arts and Crafts section of the Tuesday Afternoon club in the Glendale
Telephone building. Twenty members were present.

The next meeting of the section
will be on the regular meeting day, Thursday, October 19, when the women will take up painting
the composite fruit and flowers
they moulded recently.

CLUB EXECUTIVE BOARD
At the business meeting of the members of the executive board of the Tuesday Afternoon club, held yesterday at the home of
Mrs. John Robert White, 347
North Orange street, plans were discussed regarding furnishing the new clubhouse at Lexington drive and Central avenue. Ways and means to secure money were also taken under consideration.

At noon luncheon was enjoyed,
the various members bringing their lunch and tea and coffee was served by the hostess.

Those present included Mrs.
Daniel Campbell, Mrs. A. H. Montgomery, Mrs. C. W. Houston, Mrs.
Frank Ayars, Mrs. M. E. Plasterer,

COME HERE FROM BEACH
Mr. and Mrs. Van Arsdale
Smith, of 514 North Jackson street, who have been spending the past month at Balboa Beach, were in Glendale yesterday and to-
day. They came here to meet Mrs.
Smith's cousin, Russell Hddleson, who arrived yesterday from Chicago and expects to make his home in California. Mr. and Mrs.
Smith also have as their guests
today Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Smith of Colton. Mrs. R. L. Smith and Mrs. Van Arsdale Smith were luncheon guests in Hollywood today. They all expect to leave this week for the beach city again,
where they will remain until November 1st.

ADVANCEMENT POSTPONED
The advancement of officers of Glen Eyrle chapter, Order of the Eastern Star, which was scheduled for Friday, October 13, has been postponed indefinitely on account of the illness of Miss Mildred Lyons, associate matron. The regular meeting of the chapter will be held, with Mrs. Fannie M.
Parks, worthy matron, in charge,
and there will also be initiation.

IMPROVEMENT ASSOCIATION
A meeting of the West Glendale Improvement association is to be held tonight at 8 o'clock at the school at Columbus and Doran, it is announced.

A number of propositions are to be discussed at tonight's meeting,
according to President H. L. Finlay, 626 North Isabel street.

Members of the association and residents of the vicinity are being urged to attend.

Break Spokes When
Autos Collide Here
Spokes were broken in the automobile driven by Henry Schupp of 128 North Brand
boulevard yesterday morning
when one of its wheels was struck by a machine driven by G. L.
Wagoner of Los Angeles. Brand boulevard and Park avenue was the scene of the collision.

'THOUGHT' DRIVER BARRED
LOS ANGELES, Oct. 10.—Driving an automobile by "thought waves" or other psychic methods on the Ridge route is not to be tolerated, according to orders issued by Justice Edward Judson
Brown today.

The order from the justice in charge of motor vehicle law violators this month was issued following a declaration by Hayward Thompson, a Los Angeles medium, that he would drive over the Ridge route blindfolded.

TRIES TO SHOOT WIFE
SANTA BARBARA, Oct. 10.—
M. G. Reed of Oakland was in a hospital here today recovering from a self-inflicted wound, after an alleged attempt to shoot his wife, according to the police.
Reed is alleged to have fired two shots at her through a window.
When officers ran to the scene
he shot and seriously wounded himself.

DEATH TRIAL WITNESS
SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 10.—
Harold Castor, 15-year-old brother of Walter and Arthur Castor, took the stand today to testify for the state in the trial of Henry Wilkens, auto mechanic, charged with conspiring with the Castor brothers to stage a hold-up in which Mrs. Wilkens was shot to death.

HEAD OF FRANCE LEADS BUSY LIFE

Rigid Schedule Is Followed
Daily; Recreation, Work
Severely Regulated

By HERBERT M. DAVIDSON
For International News Service.
PARIS—It's a hard life, being president of the French republic.
Here's the daily program of Monsieur Millerand during his summer sojourn at Rambouillet, where he dwelt in the historic chateau there. Would you change your job for his?

Seven o'clock—wakes up.
Breakfasts English style—tea,
milk, toast, butter, fruit or jam.
Not fruit and jam—fruit or jam.
Reads Paris newspapers and some provincial papers. There are twenty-six morning papers in Paris alone. Takes notes.

Nine o'clock—Takes walk in the woods, bare headed, often alone.

Eleven-thirty—Reads mail, dictates mail and talks long distance to Paris. Even the president can't talk ten minutes on a French telephone without being cut off
at least once for each minute.

Twelve o'clock—Luncheon in the magnificent dining hall of the chateau. Discusses household details. Eats simply but substantially.

Three o'clock—Receives callers or plays dominoes with his children.

Four o'clock—Tea is served.
Five o'clock—Takes another
walk in the forest.

Six-thirty—Gets second mail from Paris. Works with his secretaries.

Eight o'clock—Dinner is served
and the president eats heartily.

Nine o'clock—Plays bridge or poker with family or friends. The president is said to be a good loser.

Ten o'clock—Retires for the night.

Being president of France in the winter time involves further duties, chiefly social, according to the Carnet de la Semaine, from whose columns the details of the foregoing program were gathered.

Miss Davidson Weds

William Hammond

At a marriage ceremony taking place Monday, October 2, 1922,
in Los Angeles, Miss Isabel Davidson became the bride of William H. Hammond, son of Mrs. E. Hammond of 324 North
Howard street.

The Hammonds have lived in Glendale for twenty-one years and announcement of the wedding will be of interest to their friends.
The wedding took place at 4 o'clock in the afternoon at the home of a Los Angeles minister and, following the ceremony, the bride and groom went to the Davidson home for dinner.

Mr. Hammond is an employ of the Ackerson Plumbing company and he and Mrs. Hammond are making their home on East Harvard street.

RALPH ALLAN IS BACK FROM TRIP

Manager of Theatre Tells of Motor Journey Into North of State

Ralph Allan, manager of the T. D. & L. theatre, and Mrs. Allan have arrived home from a late summer motor trip to Northern California, and in greeting his friends Mr. Allan says:

"The more I see of other places the better I love my Southern California and Glendale. Leaving Glendale at 5:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon two weeks ago we drove all night and reached Oakland at 11:30 o'clock the next day, Sunday. We traveled over the Ridge and the ride was wonderful and not at all lonesome. We passed and met other travelers continuously all the way and all during the night."

"We stopped an hour in each of the following towns: Bakersfield, Fresno and Modesto, making the trip to Oakland in nineteen hours, including the three-hour rest periods for eating and securing supplies of gas, oil and water."

"The sturdy little old Hupmobile made the round trip without even as much as a tire puncture. We spent three days in Oakland with friends and then went on to San Francisco, San Mateo and Burlingame, where we visited other friends."

"The return trip was made by the coast route, leaving San Francisco at 10 o'clock last Saturday morning and arriving in Santa Barbara at 12 o'clock that night. My mother, Mrs. Ruth Allan, accompanied us home from San Francisco and will spend some time in Glendale."

"Far Ahead of North. During our trip I, of course, took special interest in theatres and other entertainment attractions, and truthfully I'll have to say we in the southland are far ahead of the showmen of San Francisco and other northern cities."

"The general public are perhaps not aware of this fact, but it is nevertheless true and I'll have to take off my hat to the theatrical men of Los Angeles and vicinity. The funny part about it is that those fellows up north acknowledge this fact. Our welcome north was fine and we had a genuinely royal time, but it's surely good to be back home."

SHINGLES FOR BOOKS
One of the most successful lumbermen of Maine died at Seaside a few days ago. He kept all of his books on shingles and the executor hopes to add to the estate by selling the shingles after he transcribes the accounts.

J. HERBERT SMITH BACK FROM TRIP

Visit Many Interesting Places In Europe, and Witness 'Passion Play'

clean. The street cars are kept in a shining condition, and, of course, being interested in the grocery stores, I was agast when I found that in all the grocery stores they had polished floors. The stores are much smaller than ours, and are all individual concerns.

"When we visited Lucerne we had accommodations at a hotel right at the head of the beautiful deep blue Lake Lucerne, and when we went on to Geneva, we made a boat trip the full length of the lake. We took many mountain trips through miles of wonderful scenery and glacier country."

Went to Italy
"When we left Switzerland we went down into Italy, but our stay was not prolonged there because we arrived in Rome during the strike, and it was a most exciting experience. Strikes there are different from strikes in the United States, for they are called by the government. During our four-day stay in Rome we were at the Quirinal hotel, at one time the home of the Pope, until he went to live in the Vatican."

"During these four days not even a bicycle was permitted on the street without a permit. Perhaps during the day one or two cars were run, but only under heavy guard. Against the warning of others, Mrs. Smith and I ventured out one day and walked to the Vatican and rode back on a heavily-guarded car."

"The decree that everyone shall keep off the streets, and all traffic stopped to prevent gatherings of the various factions of the people for possible demonstrations against the government."

"While in Italy we also visited Venice."

Attend 'Passion Play'
"Undoubtedly the greatest event of our trip was attending the 'Passion Play' at Oberammergau. It is a perfect reproduction of Biblical history, and a trip abroad just to see it and nothing else would be well worth while."

It is of interest to Glendale people that Mr. and Mrs. Harry E. Hall, of 319 North Maryland avenue, who returned recently from a trip abroad, also saw the 'Passion Play'. However, they and the Smiths did not meet either at the play or during their journeys in foreign parts."

In telling of the 'Passion Play' Mr. Smith says, "It is a wonderful dramatic pageant, both historically and artistically."

Live Parts
"Each person who participates really lives his part, no matter how small, and their earnestness was unusually marked the day we attended, for it rained all day long, and since the stage is uncovered, it was necessary for the actors to appear with this handicap. But they were undaunted, and coming out into the driving rain in their expensive and beautiful costumes they carried their audience away with their interpretation of the life of Christ."

"An added interest to our attendance at the play was that we stayed at the home of the director. There are no hotels in the village, and since most of the residents take part in the play, nearly all the people who come for the play are guests in the homes of members of the cast."

Austria and Germany
"In Austria and Germany, which was the next stop on our itinerary, we were impressed with the cheapness of things. Their money is of practically no value at all. In Germany, we visited Munich, Berlin and Cologne."

Germany, I think, is a beautiful country, and the only mark of effect of war I noted was the lack of men. Women were busy at all kinds of hard work, some saw laying ties for railroads, others working in the fields."

"Their method of farming is what one might call intensified, for their farms present a patchwork effect. There will be included in one farm three-fourths of an acre of wheat and the same amount of acreage devoted to turnips and another to potatoes and so on."

Found Things Cheap
"How far our money went was really amazing. At no time while in Germany did we get less than $70 marks to a dollar, so it was no wonder that we thought things were cheap."

"We next went to Holland, which is a picturesque flat country, and because it is flat every one rides a bicycle. At railroad crossings, such as we have here, when the traffic is stopped one does not see lines of automobiles, but countless bicyclists dismounted to wait until the train has passed."

"We were happily surprised to find Belgium busily engaged in rebuilding. However, it will be a long, long time before she will be the same beautiful spot she was before the war. During our stay we noticed a spirited recovery from the war that we did not find in France."

Belgians Busy
"The Belgians are all busy rebuilding the country, and they are up with the sun in the morning and work until sundown. I was interested in this, and wondered how they were paid, and found that they were paid by the hour."

Elect New Officers at Group Gathering

Officers for the year were elected at the business meeting of the Henrietta Bancroft group of the W. H. M. S. of the First Methodist church, held in the social hall yesterday afternoon, the following being chosen: Mrs. L. P. Clover, leader; Mrs. C. F. Godfrey, assistant leader; Mrs. O. E. Pearson, secretary; Mrs. Edwin Kretschmer, treasurer; Mrs. J. F. Swisher, mite-box secretary; Mrs. Nina Randolph, supply secretary. Plans for the year's work were also discussed, which will be for the David and Margaret Home at La Verne. At this home there are eighty-five orphan children from the ages of two to twelve years. Mrs. E. O. Fitz of 308 North Louise street, a member of the group, gave $75 for the care of one of the little girls in the home. The members of the group are planning a visit to the home in the near future."

We had heard of and anticipated. While in France we also visited Versailles."

Tour France
"During our tour through France we passed several military cemeteries, some of which were entirely filled with the graves of American soldiers and it gives me great pride and pleasure to tell Americans who have anyone lying overseas, that the cemeteries are beautifully kept. Many of them are small in area, fenced in, and the graves are covered with well-kept grass, and there are flowers growing in nearly every grave."

"We sailed from Calais to Dover, and upon reaching England we went to Halstead, my old home, for my first visit in fourteen years. We again visited London, whose life and spirit is truly inspiring. Here, as in other places we visited, we found so many Americans and other travelers. Perhaps there hasn't been so much pleasure travel since before the war."

Return on Cunard Line
"We returned home on the Cunard liner, Berengaria, formerly the Imperator, and on the first three days out we encountered a terrific storm. It took us eight days to cross, and the first day we only made 125 miles. The storm lasted for two days and on the third day a boat drill, which is required on all ocean liners, was held. All the passengers were summoned on deck, required to put on their life preservers and assigned to positions for emergency."

"While we were having this drill one of the boat's stewards lost his balance near the edge of the boat and fell backward. He grabbed for a rope, but the rope was loose and he fell into the ocean and was seen no more. As he was customary, an anchor flag was immediately dropped overboard and we circled the spot for three hours, but did not find him."

Stop at Boston
"From New York we enjoyed a visit to historic old Boston and sightseeing trips around Paul Revere's country. Then we went on by rail to Canada, where we visited Montreal, Toronto and Vancouver."

"We made the trip from Vancouver to Victoria by water, and it is beautiful, with many fine covered islands and ideal scenery. It is very similar to the Hudson trip. In Victoria we were met by a brother Rotarian, whom I met on the train from Montreal, and we enjoyed a motor trip around Victoria as his guests."

"The rest of our trip home was made by rail with stops in Seattle, Portland and San Francisco."

MUSIC GREAT AID IN SCHOOL LIFE, IS DECLARED

Besides Aesthetic Influence It Aids Deep Breathing and Body Growth

By J. L. MEDVEDOFF
For International News Service.

WASHINGTON. — With the probable exception of the "Three Rs," music is of greater practical value than any other subject taught in the schools of America, in the opinion of Dr. John T. Tigert, of the United States Commission of Education.

"The value of music in our schools can hardly be overestimated," Dr. Tigert said. "That this is becoming more generally recognized is evidenced by the fact that music is now being taught in most of our schools by highly specialized teachers. Its place in the school curriculum is now almost universally definitely established."

Teach All to Sing
All children, Dr. Tigert declared, should be taught to sing, and as many as possible should be taught to play on some musical instrument.

"With the invention of the talking machine and the player piano," Dr. Tigert continued, "has come a greater appreciation of the value of music on the part of the public generally than has ever existed in this country before."

"While some objection has been made against these mechanical instruments because of their use for 'jazz' and similar music, the fact nevertheless remains that these instruments have been the means of bringing music into hundreds of thousands of homes which otherwise would not have any. And it has not all been of the 'jazz' kind. Many thousands of people today know and appreciate the voices of the world's greatest singers, the works of the world's greatest composers, who otherwise would never have the chance of hearing them."

Uplifting Influence
"The person who can appreciate good music and good singing; who can listen to the oratorios of Handel, of Beethoven, and feel his soul stirred to its depths by the emotions which these composers have put into their work; who can hear the singing of a Caruso or a Martinelli or a Bonci or a Patti and feel himself lifted to a higher level by their voices—such a person has gained something in this life which no other power can give."

There is probably no influence more potent than music for Americanization purposes, Dr. Tigert said.

"Its appeal is instantaneous," he added—"its language universal; it touches the heart chords and reaches the soul of the foreigner as nothing else can."

Quickens Wits
"Singing also has some physical value. To sing properly children must breathe deeply and sit or stand up straight. This strengthens their spines. The rhythmic work of the folk songs tends to gracefulness and control of the muscles of the body."

Ideas Cause Deeds Says Psychologist

COLUMBUS, O.—"All man's actions are rational, because they are actuated by ideas," said Dr. Arthur Holmes, former president of Drake university, at present professor of psychology at the University of Pennsylvania, lecturing here on "Dynamic Ideals."

"It is an idea that makes a man do a certain thing," continued Professor Holmes. "If you would have him do something different you must first break the habit by putting a different idea into his head."

Dr. Holmes said that there are wars because young men like to fight.

GETTING LONESOME
Although she had 18 children of her own, Mrs. Charles D. White of Pittsburg, Pa., adopted a little girl next door after the child's father and mother died. She said she was yearning for another child, as her baby was more than two years old. Mrs. White was married when she was 15 years old and has been married 24 years. There is only one pair of twins among her children.

Race Horse 'Fan' Times Boxing Bout

BUYRUS, Ohio.—A race horse fan attended a boxing bout. It was his first visit to the squared ring.

No sooner did the gong sound than Mr. R. H. F. took out his stop watch. Not until the bell rang, ending the round, did he take his eyes off his watch. As he did so he exclaimed: "Just eight seconds over three minutes."

Although he looked at the ring at intervals he did not seem able to overcome the habit of "clocking 'em" while the fight was on. One local citizen who sat alongside him insisted that the race horse fan "didn't see two rounds out of the twenty-four in four matches."

Varied Career for Jap Who Saw World

HONOLULU.—Napoleon S. Nakamura is the name of Honolulu's most recent acquisition to the hall of fame.

Shipwrecked, held on a mutinous ship drifting for days in the open sea, as the Ancient Mariner did, almost arrested for riding on a "Jim Crow" car, swindled out of his money by a companion; service in an insane asylum as a dentist and finally his return to Hawaii with a doctor's degree. This is the story of Napoleon, a Hawaiian-born Japanese, who has returned here to practice dentistry, after the numerous conquests of adversity in a wicked world.

Napoleon wanted an education and took $7000, which his father had saved to put him through college, and went to Tulane university, Louisiana; from then on his adventures ensued.

The T. D. & L.

The Glendale

After "Smilin' Through" it may sound almost too good to be true to say that Norma Talmadge has made an even better production. But "The Eternal Flame," showing at the T. D. & L. theatre is beyond a doubt the greatest photodrama of Miss Talmadge's career.

Adapted from Honore Balzac's "La Duchesse de Langeais," with all the pomp, color and glory of the Louis XVIII period, it is an epic of the screen, and Norma as the beautiful and flirtatious duchess is superb.

Sinister shadows of Old Spain cloud a stirring page of American romance in Zane Grey's picture, "Golden Dreams," the attraction at the Glendale theatre. "Golden Dreams" is excellent melodrama. The leading woman's part is played by the beautiful Claire Adams, while the hero's trials and joys fall to the lot of Carl Gantvoort, a two-fisted fighter and double-armed lover.

Among the most popular of the new fall fabrics is poplartine, a sort of cloth poplin.
